POSA TO AWARD LIFE HONORARY MEMBERSHIPS

The State Camp of Pennsylvania, Patriotic Order Sons of America will hold its seventy-seventh annual State Camp convention, in the ninety-fifth year of the Order here, August 23 to 27, with the executive sessions August 25, 26, and 27.

Sessions of the camp will be held in the Moose home while the Hotel Gettysburg has been designated headquarters.

For the first time in the Order's history, three outstanding citizens of Pennsylvania will be nominated by the State president, James D. Wallace, of Harrisburg, for Life Honorary Membership in the Order. Citizens have been nominated for this distinction and from the hundreds suggested, the State President has made his selection.

Memorial Service

One of the features of the convention will be the memorial service to be held on the battlefield, in tribute to all men of the U. S. forces who have made the supreme sacrifice and the members of the Order who have died during the year. Orrin E. Boyle, Allentown, a Past National President, will deliver the memorial address.

The officers and delegates will parade from the State Camp meeting place to the battlefield preceding the services. State President Wallace will preside.

Delegates will face the west for one minute at each of its five sessions and remain silent in memory and tribute to the men of the United States forces. This has been the policy in the eight hundred subordinate units of this order in the Keystone state during the past eight months.

The reception for the P. O. S. of A. will be held Monday, August 24th. A religious service precedes this reception Sunday evening, August 23.

Visiting Officers

Sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday morning and afternoon and Thursday morning, when National President Hugh G. Mitchell, Esq., of Statesville, N. C., will install the officers and address the convention.

Present officers of the P. O. S. of A. include: State President Wallace; State Vice President, Edward Northey, Sr., of Mahanoy City; State Master of Forms, Lewis A. Gaul of Reading; State Treasurer, Eugene F. Hendricks of Reading; State Secretary, Charles B. Helms of Philadelphia; State Conductor, Honorable Ira T. Fiss of Shamokin Dam; State Inspector, George H. Lare, Jr., of Roxborough, Phila.; State Guard, Frank Doerrman of Reading; Assistant State Secretary, John M. Baker of Penbrook; State Chaplain, Rev. R. Earle Pettingill of Philadelphia; and the State Camp Trustees, Walter D. Heagy of Hanover; William M. White of Philadelphia; Chester E. Ford, of Hopewell; Walter W. Kutzler of Easton; Charles W. Staehle of Orwigsburg; Lehman L. Hart of Norristown; William J. Shiffer of Lancaster; G. Duncore Missimer of Lafayette Hill and John R. Bell, of Huntingdon.

National officers who will attend the State camp in addition to the National President include National Vice President Harry S. Helms of Philadelphia; National Master of Forms, Rev. Luther B. Hafer of Taneytown; National Treasurer, Clinton H. Paul of Altoona and National Secretary, Elmer P. Keller of Emmaus.

Seek Truck-Trailer For Hit-And-Run

State motor police here are searching for a red truck and trailer which side-swiped and damaged a car operated by Melvin Kump, 18, Gettysburg R. 3, in an accident which occurred about 7:30 o'clock this morning two miles west of here along the Lincoln highway.

Kump told Private James A. Rose of the Gettysburg detail of the motor police who investigated, that the big truck stopped and then drove on after the collision. Kump was uninjured but his car, which was turned completely around after being struck by the truck, was damaged to the extent of about $75.

Recent Bride

The former Miss Hope Arishia Thomas, daughter of Mrs. Guy Revere Thomas and the late Mr. Thomas, of Biglerville, whose wedding to DeWitt Clinton Dearborn of Gettysburg took place Wednesday afternoon in Washington, D. C. She is a high school teacher at Clifton Forge, Virginia. The bridegroom is now at Drew Field, Florida, preparatory to reporting for officers' training.

OFFER MOTIONS IN SHUTZ CASE

At the conclusion of an afternoon hearing in the H. W. and Miriam Gurth Shutz proceedings on Friday at the court house here, Referee Walter Compton, of Harrisburg, set September 3 as the next date for a hearing in the case—providing the three motions made Friday morning by Robert Glass, Harrisburg, and J. Francis Yake, Esqs., counsel for C. H. Bittinger, Berwick township, the execution creditor, are turned down.

If Referee Compton grants the motion for the dissolution of the district court restraining order because required notice of its pendency was not given Bittinger or dismisses the whole proceedings for a new debt arrangement on ground that it was not brought "in good faith" by Shutz and his counsel the hearing will not have to be held and the way will be opened for the postponed sheriff's sale instigated by Bittinger.

Should a hearing be held on September 3, Mildred Haverstock, former employe at the Cross Keys inn, will be called upon to prove claims for about $1,300 against Shutz which were filed here Friday in her behalf.

Shutz was represented Friday by Nolan Zeigler, Esq., of Harrisburg.

NINE DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Hastings, Mich., Aug. 15 (AP)—Fort Custer troops today guarded the strewn wreckage of a multi-motored Army plane which crashed in flames last night in a field near here with its crew of nine, none of whom survived.

Parts of the big plane, which came to earth within 100 feet of the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Proefrock and tossed flaming gasoline into the back door-yard, starting grass fires, were scattered for more than a half mile, witnesses said.

Army ambulances removed the bodies to nearby Kellogg Field for identification. No official statement concerning the crash was immediately forthcoming, and officers said the names of the victims probably would not be disclosed until the next of kin had been notified.

Many witnesses who saw the plane pass over Hastings said it appeared to be in difficulty even then.

Mrs. Proefrock, near whose farm home the craft crashed, described the same eerie whistling heard by the fairground crowds. She said the crash itself "sounded like the voice of doom."

JAILED FOR BEGGING

William Glass, Gettysburg, was sent to jail this morning by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore to serve a 30-day sentence for begging. Glass was arrested this morning by Chief of Police Glenn Guise.

SEEK $25,000 FOR LIVESTOCK ORGANIZATION

The campaign for 1,000 farmer members in Adams county of the Producers' Livestock Cooperative which is being formed in nine southeastern Pennsylvania counties and bordering sections of Maryland opened Friday evening at a public meeting in the court house at which most of the 75 men in attendance came forward with stock subscriptions and promised to help enroll their neighbors.

The Cooperative is being capitalized at $25,000—preferred stock paying three per cent interest is offered at $10 per share and common stock at $1 per share.

Seek $25,000

Harrison Nolt, Lancaster farmer and chairman of the committee guiding the formation of the Cooperative, said the Cooperative hopes to be in operation by September 1. Large stock subscriptions already have been secured in several other counties but operations will not begin until the $25,000 is subscribed.

A board of directors will be named by the stockholders who also will choose a manager. Each stockholder will have one vote in transaction of Cooperative business regardless of the number of shares of stock he owns, in accordance with provisions of the Cooperative Act of 1929 under which the organization is being formed.

M. E. Knouse, Arendtsville canner, farmer and fruit grower and secretary-treasurer of the Cooperative committee; County Agent M. T. Hartman and Harry Snavely, Lancaster county, were additional speakers Friday evening. All discussed the advantages of cooperative buying and selling and the opportunity offered farmers for buying and selling feeder cattle and other livestock on grade while they maintain close touch with current markets.

To Improve Livestock

Successful operation of the Cooperative will improve the grade of livestock handled in this area, it was predicted, while the advantages of direct shipping, careful selection of feeder stock and the wide contacts offered by affiliation with 19 similar cooperatives and with the National Livestock association were discussed.

Not only feeder cattle will be handled by the Cooperative but also other cattle, calves, hogs and sheep, it was explained. All will be handled on a commission basis.

Full cooperation of other farm groups is being given the proposed cooperative in this and other counties, speakers said.

War Board Praises 'Ag' Staffs, Pupils

The Adams county War Board at a regular meeting in the Farm Bureau building, Friday evening, voted its thanks to Richard C. Lighter, county vocational agriculture adviser, and to the other vocational agriculture instructors and the students in the county "for their excellent work on repairing farm machinery and other farm implements and for other services to the farmers of the county."

A recent report on vocational "ag" shop work programs for the last year showed that hundreds of pieces of farm machinery and equipment had been repaired or rebuilt by the teachers and students in connection with their regular "ag" courses in county high schools.

The War Board urged "the continuation and expansion of this program for the next school year."

Chairman Harrison F. Snyder presided at the meeting.

Wartime Photos On Sunday Park Program

Pictures of "Gettysburg and the Battlefield in Wartime" will be the subject of an illustrated talk at the Campfire program to be presented at East Cemetery hill beginning at 9 o'clock. The National Park office staff here is presenting the series of Sunday evening programs.

A large part of the views to be shown Sunday evening will be photographs made by Tyson and Tipton, wartime and post-war photographers.

Two Jailbreakers And Hitch-Hiking Sailors Sentenced

Heavy penalties were meted out this morning in Adams county court by Judge W. C. Sheely to two jailbreakers and two sailors who assaulted and robbed truckers who had befriended them.

James Taylor, 19, Huntington, West Virginia, one of the two men who broke out of the county jail here the night of August 6 after assaulting a turnkey, drew a six month sentence on the jail break charge and a year for assaulting the turnkey. Judge Sheely revoked the original six-month sentence imposed on Taylor last May for assault with intent to kill and ordered him to the Eastern penitentiary for a period of from one and a half to three years to run concurrently with the time covered in the jail sentences.

Sent To Workhouse

Edward Wagaman, 20, Hanover R. D., Taylor's companion in the jail break got a year for breaking jail and a year for assaulting the jail keeper. Then the court imposed a two-to-four year sentence on the original charge on which Wagaman had been jailed—receiving stolen goods. The court recommended Wagaman's immediate transfer to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Still wearing their Navy uniforms, Robert C. McKee, Kokomo City, Indiana, and Earl R. Buck, Los Angeles, both aged 18, were sent to the Eastern penitentiary for long terms for assaulting two truck drivers August 6, near Graeffenburg inn, after the men had given the sailors a "lift" and bought them a meal in Gettysburg.

Prison Sentences

Buck, who had no known previous criminal record, must serve from five to 10 years in the pen while McKee, who admitted a series of arrests for larceny, purse snatching and setting false fire alarms in Kokomo City, was given a term of from seven and a half to 15 years.

The court told the men, who are both absent without leave from the Navy, they were fortunate they were not in court on murder charges. Private Paul Ruda of the Chambersburg substation of the state motor police, the prosecutor, exhibited in court heavy bolts and engineers' levels used to beat Orville Weyandt and Emory Moyer, both of Altoona. The officer said the victims are recovering.

Second Sentence

Judge Sheely told the sailors that they have performed a "great disservice to the men of the armed forces of the nation" by attacking two men who had sought to help uniformed sailors who had been hitch-hiking along the highway.

The court added a sentence of one to two years for each youth on the charge of stealing the truck. The machine was wrecked a few minutes after the sailors gained control of it. McKee and Buck disclosed that both had served and faced additional terms in the "brig" at their posts. They were headed for California when they were arrested.

Charles Trone, New Oxford, who went to jail last Saturday voluntarily to begin serving a term for drunken driving, was formally sentenced to serve 30 days, dating from last Saturday. He must also pay a $100 fine and the costs. If those amounts are paid at the expiration of the jail term, $50 will be remitted, the court ruled.

Geraldine Smith, Taneytown, who has been employed in Littlestown, was dismissed without a jail sen-

PEACHES $1.50 BUSHEL AT MART

Belle of Georgia peaches appeared on market stands this morning and sold for $1.50 a bushel. Elbertas and J. H. Hales may start to move next week, growers said.

Tomatoes were in fair supply at 75 cents a basket and 13 cents a quart box. String beans brought 10 cents a box at most stands. Potatoes sold for 15 cents a quarter peck and 90 cents a half bushel. Squash ranged from three for 10 cents to 10 cents each. Roasting ears were plentiful at 20 and 25 cents a dozen ears.

Summer Rambo apples brought 15 cents a quarter and 25 cents a half peck or $1 a bushel. Red and purple plums brought 10 cents a box or two boxes for 25 cents, while large prune plums brought 30 cents a half peck and 50 cents a peck. Elderberries were 10 cents a quart box.

Red beets brought 10 cents a quart box and cabbage sold at three and four cents a pound, ranging from five to 25 cents a head. Cucumbers could be had at 75 cents per hundred, a cent apiece and two and three for five cents.

Eggs showed a slight increase and brought 38 cents to 40 cents. Dressed chickens continued at 38 and 45 cents a pound.

FIRE DESTROYS PACKING SHED

Upwards of $6,000 damage was done in the fire which destroyed the fruit packing shed and equipment of Charles E. Kuhn, Cashtown, early Friday afternoon.

As yet no cause for the fire has been determined. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Fruit graders, 5,000 apple crates and $1,200 worth of peach baskets which were recently received to be used in the peach harvest, next week, were lost.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Leo Diehl who summoned members of the Kuhn family who were at dinner. The Cashtown fire company was called but flames had made such rapid headway that little could be done.

Although threshing was in progress during the morning at the Kuhn barn it is not believed the fire started from that source inasmuch as a gasoline engine was being used. The packing shed is a considerable distance from the barn.

MADE STORE MANAGER

Charles Woodward, West Middle street, has been transferred from clerk at Joe The Motorist store and promoted to manager of the company's store at Elizabethtown.

8th Graders May Take Test Monday

Next Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock an opportunity will be given all certified eighth grade pupils who failed to take the May test because of sickness, road conditions or other reasons to take a high school entrance examination.

The examination will be given in the office of County Superintendent J. Floyd Slaybaugh. All pupils wishing to attend high school during the coming school year and who have not been examined should report to the court house office to take this test, the superintendent said.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license was issued here this morning to Mark Theron Pfeffer, son of Mrs. John Pfeffer, Littlestown, and Sue Elmira Routzahn, daughter of Mrs. David Routzahn, Gardners.

To Demonstrate Ditch Blasting

The opening of a new channel for a creek flowing through a pasture on the Elmer Hikes farm, Gardners R. D., will provide an opportunity for a ditch blasting demonstration in charge of J. R. Haswell, agricultural extension engineer from State College.

Arrangements for the demonstration were made by M. T. Hartman, Adams county farm agent, who said today the placing of dynamite will start at 9:30 a. m. and the blast will be set off at 11 a. m. on Tuesday.

Any interested county farmers are invited to attend.

May Be Stepping Stone To Attack On Isle Of Japan

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—United States Marines, supported by strong air and naval forces, had smashed back sufficient Japanese defenders today to clamp a firm hold upon the strategic Solomon islands.

As Allied bombers of General MacArthur's Australian headquarters pounded at attempted enemy reinforcements, American fighting men were "progressing satisfactorily," in consolidating hard-won beach heads, the Navy announced last night.

The terse communique on the first big offensive of the United States and the United Nations gave only the barest details.

May Assault Japan

But it left little doubt that the Marines were winning the early rounds of a conflict that, if successful, may lead eventually to an assault upon Japan itself.

With the Marines still in the thick of combat, flying fortresses and swift attack bombers were reported to be persistently striking at Japanese air bases and ship concentrations to protect Allied communication lines and stave off enemy reinforcements.

A Japanese convoy which an Allied spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters said was attacked three times previously, again became the target of heavy bombers off New Britain to the northwest. The convoy included transport ships bound in an easterly direction toward the Solomons.

Allied Planes Safe

Bad weather veiled results of the new assault but two more Japanese fighter planes were shot down and three damaged. All Allied aircraft returned to their bases although some were damaged slightly.

Meantime, naval units protected the Allied communication lines and escorting supply vessels to the occupation forces and the Army and shore based-aircraft continued to attack the enemy air bases and harbors, the Navy reported.

Outcome of the battle for the island bases was expected to decide whether the Japs retain the stepping stones to attacks on Australia and New Zealand or whether the United Nations attain a base for future offensive against enemy positions.

Strongly Entrenched

Further indication of the progress in the Solomons came from an English War correspondent, who cabled his London paper from Sydney that the Americans "have or soon will have complete control of Tulagi island," a major point of attack.

So strongly entrenched were the Marines, he added, that only "the heaviest reinforcement" could dislodge them.

Germans Drive Deep Wedge In Stalingrad Line

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—German forces in the Kotelnikovski region southwest of Stalingrad fanned out in a threatening new drive today toward Astrakhan where the Volga meets the Caspian, dispatches from the front said.

Other Nazis made fresh progress toward Stalingrad forcing a "deep wedge" in Red army defenses south of Kletskaya in the Don bend and pushing the Russians back even further to the northeast of Kotelnikorski, which lies 95 miles from Stalingrad.

The new threat to the broad Volga, which is Russia's main waterway was considered dangerous if not more so than the twin thrusts against Stalingrad, great industrial city on the river.

Is Key City

Astrakhan is one of Russia's chief food sources and is a key to the northern Caspian sea as well as the Allied supply route from the Persian gulf.

The Nazi drive in the Caucasus is so swift and mobile that Red army units are forced to be vigilant day and night to prevent encirclement. No such thing as a stable front exists in the Caucasus, dispatches said.

Heavy fighting was flaring in all sectors of the Don bend, the bulletin indicated.

The withdrawal below Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, was made under pressure of superior enemy forces," the mid-day communique said, adding that after withdrawing "slightly" the Russians had "consolidated themselves in advantageous positions."

The Germans also broke through northeast of Kotelnikovski, reaching the outskirts of an unnamed village, but in a swift and unexpected counterattack the Red army threw back the invaders, the communique said.

Again the Germans struck on the same battleground, this time with the support of fifteen tanks. Soviet artillery smashed six German tanks, the communique said, and the Russians launched a counterattack against the confused Germans, routing them once more.

While the Red army fought grimly at the approaches to Stalingrad, the struggle for the Caucasus moved on bitterly and the Russians acknowledged that small forces of German automatic rifle men had succeeded in crossing the Kuban river at Krasnodar in the northwestern Caucasus. Krasnodar is only 60 miles northwest of the Red fleet's Black sea naval base at Novorossisk.

"Fighting is now going on to exterminate the German rifle men who crossed to the south bank," the communique said.

Two Jailbreakers And Hitch-Hiking Sailors Sentenced

Heavy penalties were meted out this morning in Adams county court by Judge W. C. Sheely to two jailbreakers and two sailors who assaulted and robbed truckers who had befriended them.

James Taylor, 19, Huntington, West Virginia, one of the two men who broke out of the county jail here the night of August 6 after assaulting a turnkey, drew a six month sentence on the jail break charge and a year for assaulting the turnkey. Judge Sheely revoked the original six-month sentence imposed on Taylor last May for assault with intent to kill and ordered him to the Eastern penitentiary for a period of from one and a half to three years to run concurrently with the time covered in the jail sentences.

Sent To Workhouse

Edward Wagaman, 20, Hanover R. D., Taylor's companion in the jail break got a year for breaking jail and a year for assaulting the jail keeper. Then the court imposed a two-to-four year sentence on the original charge on which Wagaman had been jailed—receiving stolen goods. The court recommended Wagaman's immediate transfer to the Allegheny county workhouse.

Still wearing their Navy uniforms, Robert C. McKee, Kokomo City, Indiana, and Earl R. Buck, Los Angeles, both aged 18, were sent to the Eastern penitentiary for long terms for assaulting two truck drivers August 6, near Graeffenburg inn, after the men had given the sailors a "lift" and bought them a meal in Gettysburg.

Prison Sentences

Buck, who had no known previous criminal record, must serve from five to 10 years in the pen while McKee, who admitted a series of arrests for larceny, purse snatching and setting false fire alarms in Kokomo City, was given a term of from seven and a half to 15 years.

The court told the men, who are both absent without leave from the Navy, they were fortunate they were not in court on murder charges. Private Paul Ruda of the Chambersburg substation of the state motor police, the prosecutor, exhibited in court heavy bolts and engineers' levels used to beat Orville Weyandt and Emory Moyer, both of Altoona. The officer said the victims are recovering.

Second Sentence

Judge Sheely told the sailors that they have performed a "great disservice to the men of the armed forces of the nation" by attacking two men who had sought to help uniformed sailors who had been hitch-hiking along the highway.

The court added a sentence of one to two years for each youth on the charge of stealing the truck. The machine was wrecked a few minutes after the sailors gained control of it. McKee and Buck disclosed that both had served and faced additional terms in the "brig" at their posts. They were headed for California when they were arrested.

Charles Trone, New Oxford, who went to jail last Saturday voluntarily to begin serving a term for drunken driving, was formally sentenced to serve 30 days, dating from last Saturday. He must also pay a $100 fine and the costs. If those amounts are paid at the expiration of the jail term, $50 will be remitted, the court ruled.

Geraldine Smith, Taneytown, who has been employed in Littlestown, was dismissed without a jail sen-

PEACHES $1.50 BUSHEL AT MART

Belle of Georgia peaches appeared on market stands this morning and sold for $1.50 a bushel. Elbertas and J. H. Hales may start to move next week, growers said.

Tomatoes were in fair supply at 75 cents a basket and 13 cents a quart box. String beans brought 10 cents a box at most stands. Potatoes sold for 15 cents a quarter peck and 90 cents a half bushel. Squash ranged from three for 10 cents to 10 cents each. Roasting ears were plentiful at 20 and 25 cents a dozen ears.

Summer Rambo apples brought 15 cents a quarter and 25 cents a half peck or $1 a bushel. Red and purple plums brought 10 cents a box or two boxes for 25 cents, while large prune plums brought 30 cents a half peck and 50 cents a peck. Elderberries were 10 cents a quart box.

Red beets brought 10 cents a quart box and cabbage sold at three and four cents a pound, ranging from five to 25 cents a head. Cucumbers could be had at 75 cents per hundred, a cent apiece and two and three for five cents.

Eggs showed a slight increase and brought 38 cents to 40 cents. Dressed chickens continued at 38 and 45 cents a pound.

FIRE DESTROYS PACKING SHED

Upwards of $6,000 damage was done in the fire which destroyed the fruit packing shed and equipment of Charles E. Kuhn, Cashtown, early Friday afternoon.

As yet no cause for the fire has been determined. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Fruit graders, 5,000 apple crates and $1,200 worth of peach baskets which were recently received to be used in the peach harvest, next week, were lost.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Leo Diehl who summoned members of the Kuhn family who were at dinner. The Cashtown fire company was called but flames had made such rapid headway that little could be done.

Although threshing was in progress during the morning at the Kuhn barn it is not believed the fire started from that source inasmuch as a gasoline engine was being used. The packing shed is a considerable distance from the barn.

MADE STORE MANAGER

Charles Woodward, West Middle street, has been transferred from clerk at Joe The Motorist store and promoted to manager of the company's store at Elizabethtown.

8th Graders May Take Test Monday

Next Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock an opportunity will be given all certified eighth grade pupils who failed to take the May test because of sickness, road conditions or other reasons to take a high school entrance examination.

The examination will be given in the office of County Superintendent J. Floyd Slaybaugh. All pupils wishing to attend high school during the coming school year and who have not been examined should report to the court house office to take this test, the superintendent said.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license was issued here this morning to Mark Theron Pfeffer, son of Mrs. John Pfeffer, Littlestown, and Sue Elmira Routzahn, daughter of Mrs. David Routzahn, Gardners.

To Demonstrate Ditch Blasting

The opening of a new channel for a creek flowing through a pasture on the Elmer Hikes farm, Gardners R. D., will provide an opportunity for a ditch blasting demonstration in charge of J. R. Haswell, agricultural extension engineer from State College.

Arrangements for the demonstration were made by M. T. Hartman, Adams county farm agent, who said today the placing of dynamite will start at 9:30 a. m. and the blast will be set off at 11 a. m. on Tuesday.

Any interested county farmers are invited to attend.

May Be Stepping Stone To Attack On Isle Of Japan

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—United States Marines, supported by strong air and naval forces, had smashed back sufficient Japanese defenders today to clamp a firm hold upon the strategic Solomon islands.

As Allied bombers of General MacArthur's Australian headquarters pounded at attempted enemy reinforcements, American fighting men were "progressing satisfactorily," in consolidating hard-won beach heads, the Navy announced last night.

The terse communique on the first big offensive of the United States and the United Nations gave only the barest details.

May Assault Japan

But it left little doubt that the Marines were winning the early rounds of a conflict that, if successful, may lead eventually to an assault upon Japan itself.

With the Marines still in the thick of combat, flying fortresses and swift attack bombers were reported to be persistently striking at Japanese air bases and ship concentrations to protect Allied communication lines and stave off enemy reinforcements.

A Japanese convoy which an Allied spokesman at MacArthur's headquarters said was attacked three times previously, again became the target of heavy bombers off New Britain to the northwest. The convoy included transport ships bound in an easterly direction toward the Solomons.

Allied Planes Safe

Bad weather veiled results of the new assault but two more Japanese fighter planes were shot down and three damaged. All Allied aircraft returned to their bases although some were damaged slightly.

Meantime, naval units protected the Allied communication lines and escorting supply vessels to the occupation forces and the Army and shore based-aircraft continued to attack the enemy air bases and harbors, the Navy reported.

Outcome of the battle for the island bases was expected to decide whether the Japs retain the stepping stones to attacks on Australia and New Zealand or whether the United Nations attain a base for future offensive against enemy positions.

Strongly Entrenched

Further indication of the progress in the Solomons came from an English War correspondent, who cabled his London paper from Sydney that the Americans "have or soon will have complete control of Tulagi island," a major point of attack.

So strongly entrenched were the Marines, he added, that only "the heaviest reinforcement" could dislodge them.

Germans Drive Deep Wedge In Stalingrad Line

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Aug. 15 (AP)—German forces in the Kotelnikovski region southwest of Stalingrad fanned out in a threatening new drive today toward Astrakhan where the Volga meets the Caspian, dispatches from the front said.

Other Nazis made fresh progress toward Stalingrad forcing a "deep wedge" in Red army defenses south of Kletskaya in the Don bend and pushing the Russians back even further to the northeast of Kotelnikovski, which lies 95 miles from Stalingrad.

The new threat to the broad Volga which is Russia's main waterway was considered dangerous if not more so than the twin thrusts against Stalingrad, great industrial city on the river.

Is Key City

Astrakhan is one of Russia's chief food sources and is a key to the northern Caspian sea as well as the Allied supply route from the Persian gulf.

The Nazi drive in the Caucasus is so swift and mobile that Red army units are forced to be vigilant day and night to prevent encirclement. No such thing as a stable front exists in the Caucasus, dispatches said.

Heavy fighting was flaring in all sectors of the Don bend, the bulletin indicated.

The withdrawal below Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad, was made under pressure of superior enemy forces," the mid-day communique said, adding that after withdrawing "slightly" the Russians had "consolidated themselves in advantageous positions."

The Germans also broke through northeast of Kotelnikovski, reaching the outskirts of an unnamed village, but in a swift and unexpected counterattack the Red army threw back the invaders, the communique said.

Again the Germans struck on the same battleground, this time with the support of fifteen tanks. Soviet artillery smashed six German tanks, the communique said, and the Russians launched a counterattack against the confused Germans, routing them once more.

While the Red army fought grimly at the approaches to Stalingrad, the struggle for the Caucasus moved on bitterly and the Russians acknowledged that small forces of German automatic rifle men had succeeded in crossing the Kuban river at Krasnodar in the northwestern Caucasus. Krasnodar is only 60 miles northwest of the Red fleet's Black sea naval base at Novorossisk.

"Fighting is now going on to exterminate the German rifle men who crossed to the south bank," the communique said.

State Promises Full Coal Weight

Harrisburg, Aug. 14 (AP)—Growing production and use of coal today led the commonwealth to intensify activities aimed at insuring full weight deliveries.

Secretary William S. Livengood, Jr., of the Internal Affairs department directed increased vigilance by enforcement agents, declaring: "For the first time in many years the people of Pennsylvania may feel assured of getting 2,000 pounds of coal in a ton."

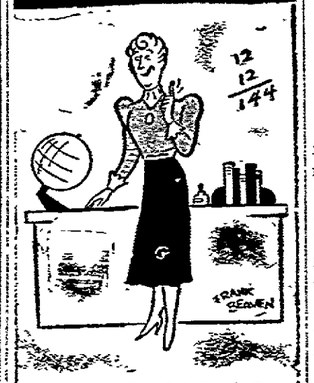

The department's bureau of standard weights and measures enforces a year-old law which tightens regulations on deliveries of solid fuel. Director Joseph F. Blickley has just completed a study of the new law at Livengood's request.

Blickley reported more than 4,000 prosecutions under the act, which calls for fines ranging from $25 to $300. Thirty of 8,000 weighmasters have had their licenses revoked for various violations

PITTSBURGH CONVENTION

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—Complying with government requests that convention travel be reduced as much as possible, the National Association of Coroners will hold its sixth annual convention November 15-18 at Pittsburgh instead of August 31-Sept. 2, at San Jose, Calif., association president A. L. Brodie has announced.

Fate Of Hockey Is Up To Canada

Chicago, Aug. 14 (AP)—The fate of professional hockey involving National league play in the United States and Canada for the 1942-43 season may be decided in Toronto, Ontario, a week from today.

Leaders expect to get the "go ahead" signal.

Representatives of the vast amateur hockey organization of Canada will meet with Canadian government officials and learn the position Ottawa will take. Tied up with the decision is the fate of the sport in the United States.

Capt. W. G. Hardy, president of the International Ice Hockey Association, and the Canadian Amateur Hockey League, in Chicago on a speech-making tour for his government, expressed his personal belief that the game is one of the best for heightening both Army and civilian morale. He said today the senior hockey association in Canada plans, if told to go ahead, to emphasize games played by teams from Army and war munitions camps.

County Is Denied Blackout Exemption

Harrisburg, Aug. 14 (AP)—A plea for exemption from the coming Pennsylvania-New Jersey blackout was refused Allegheny county yesterday by the State Defense Council despite reports from Pittsburgh that adequate alarm equipment was lacking.

Dr. A. C. Marts, council director, said local defense officers would have to warn residents by using whatever alarm devices were available. He pointed out that "the enemy would be very pleased to attack" a section unable to alert its population. The two-state test will be held sometime before September 1.

Truck Moving Slowly

The motorcycle swerved to the right and rear of the trailer. Kister was thrown head-first to the pavement between the front wheels of the truck. Persons who rushed to the scene extricated Kister and summoned an ambulance from the hospital.

Moss said that John Heisel, Lemoyne, was a witness to the accident, reporting that the truck was proceeding slowly and stopped immediately. The road was dry at the time, the officers said

Doctor Grim released the body Thursday night to the Hoff funeral home, New Cumberland. Kister is married and the father of two small sons.

BRITISH RUN SEA GAUNTLET TO AID MALTA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Once more the British have run the gauntlet of Axis warplanes and naval ships in the Mediterranean to deliver a big convoy of reinforcements and airplanes to the island of Malta, and the cost of this great engagement has been heavy for both sides.

Why should it be necessary for Britain thus to risk fighting equipment to serve an island which covers only ninety-five square miles and sit in the midst of an enemy-built hell?

The answer is that Malta is one of the most important strategic points, big or little, in the world. This island is the British air force observation post of the Mediterranean.

Powerful Base

It is the powerful base from which, once a foe is spotted, warplanes set out on their mission of destruction.

And it's from here that airmen fly to the aid of Allied shipping which has been attacked.

Malta no longer can be used as a naval base, excepting for submarines, because Hitler maintains a powerful force of warplanes in Mussolini's Sicily, only fifty-six miles north of the British island, and makes it too hot for shipping in Malta's otherwise fine harbors. However, the Nazi chief hasn't been able to drive the Royal Air Force out of this stronghold, despite one of the fiercest and most protracted aerial bombardments the war has known.

British air-scouts are constantly on the move over the Mediterranean from Malta. Their chief business, of course, is to spot enemy supply ships and transports headed from Axis ports in Europe to Africa.

Must Stop Rommel

This work is essential right now, because reinforcements and supplies must be kept from Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's desert forces at all hazards. His dangerous offensive against Egypt has been held up for lack of resources, and the British are praying that their opposing army under General Auchinleck can be reinforced so as to strike at Rommel before aid reaches him.

Should the British lose Malta it would permit the Axis to move shipping across the Mediterranean to Africa with comparative ease and Allied vessels would have difficulty in sailing this great thoroughfare.

INDIA ASSUMES NORMAL QUIET

Bombay, India, Aug. 15 (AP)—Abating violence in the "Do-or-Die" drive for Indian independence which Mahandas K. Gandhi had intended to be non-violent relaxed the grip of terror over India Friday.

One by one, mills and factories were reported reopening in Bombay, which had been the scene of the most turbulent outbreaks since Sunday.

With armed British security forces still patrolling and police and troops acting swiftly and firmly, however, there was some sporadic street fighting and vandalism elsewhere in the vast sub-continent.

Guest-Prisoner

At Dacca, one person was killed and several were injured, including policemen, when guards opened fire to protect a judge trying to save records from a crowd attempting to set them afire in a raid on a court.

At Poona, Gandhi remained the guest-like prisoner of the British which he had been since soon after the all-India Congress party made him generalissimo Sunday of a mass civil disobedience movement to oust the British from rule of India.

A barbed wire fence twice the little leader's height was more a barrier to keep his lieutenants out than to keep him in the magnificent, marble-floored palace of the Aga Khan.

Defense Blames Murder On Drugs

Camden, N. J., Aug. 15 (AP)—Attorney William Gottschalk leaned on testimony that John P. Lynch once threatened to slay his wife and daughter as he defended his client today in the May 21 slaying of Policeman George C. Miller.

Summoned as a star defense witness, Lynch's 18-year-old daughter tearfully declared the former Stratford Justice of the Peace threatened "to kill me and my mother last summer."

Lynch's wife also testified yesterday. The two women pictured Lynch as a once-kindly man who had become "nasty" and irritable through constant use of drugs.

The defense contends Lynch was crazed by an overdose of bromide at the time Miller was shot.

Must Fill Freight Cars To Capacity

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman today ordered that freight cars carrying civilian freight must be loaded to their marked load limit, or to full visible capacity.

Tank cars, flat cars, and cars containing less-than-carload freight were exempted from the order.

Eastman said the purpose was to obtain more efficient use of cars and locomotives. Railroad motive power now was being used to a point close to capacity, Eastman said, and "we must get the greatest possible use out of the existing railroad plants."

Death

William G. Nell

William G. Nell, New Oxford R. D. 3, died at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the West Side sanitarium, York, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was a son of the late Michael and Susanna Harbolt Nell and was 77 years old. Surviving are his wife, who before marriage was Mary Ellen Myers; two sons, Norman Nell, at home and Monroe Nell, New Oxford R. D. 3; one grandchild and one sister, Mrs. Orphia Myers, East Berlin. Mr. Nell was a member of the New Oxford Reformed church for many years.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with services at his late residence. Rev. Dobbs Ehlman, pastor of the New Oxford Reformed church, will officiate. Burial will be made in the New Oxford cemetery.

KANE IS HAVEN FOR HAY FEVER

Kane, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Hundreds of persons allergic to ragweed left their sniffles and sneezes behind them today to gather in this northwestern Pennsylvania mountain community which has become a haven for hay fever sufferers.

State officials predicted the hay fever season which opened today would be a "bad one" because heavy rains have increased the growth of weeds and the ground has been too wet to permit farmers to keep them under control.

This community, Pennsylvania's "icebox" in winter, is comparatively free of the ragweed pollen. As a result, the normal population of 6,133 today is swelled by hundreds from Atlantic coastal states and from the midwest.

Many here this year previously authorities said. The rubber shortauthorities said. The rubber hortage and gasoline curtailment have failed to decrease the number of visiting sufferers, townsfolk said. Heavier railroad passenger traffic has offset a drop in the number of motorists.

Families of Army officers stationed in the east are numerous this year. Borough and Chamber of Commerce officials report, the demand for cabins has been heavy and hotels and furnished rooms in private homes are popular.

To Junk Gunboat Constructed In 1844

Erie, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Scrap dealers will be asked to bid on junking the U. S. S. Wolverine, famous iron-hulled gunboat of the U. S. Navy which has been lying abandoned in Misery Bay two years.

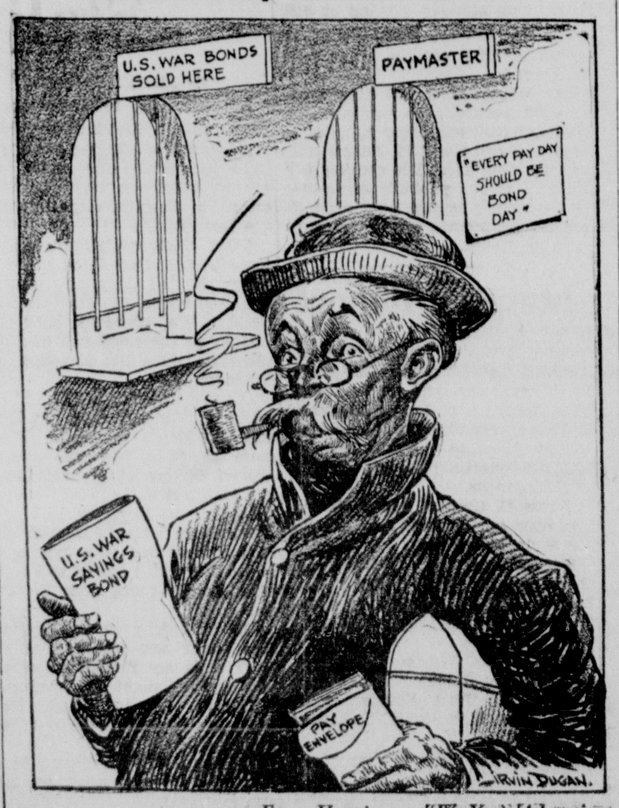

City coundil authorized asking for bids yesterday after hearing James Purcell, president of the Niagara Historical Society, advocate preserving the ship for its historic value. It was constructed in 1844 by the firm of Stackhouse and Tomlinson.

Captain W. L. Morrison, U. S. Navy, retired, said he thought it would be "a fitting end for the Wolverine to be scrapped for the tanks and guns it would help produce. He was commanding officer of the vessel when it was taken out of service as a training ship.

EASTERN AREA FLYING "BAN" NOW IN EFFECT

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Deadline for rigid enforcement of recently announced flying regulations in the eastern "vital defense area" today found most civilian operations in Pennsylvania, including those of the Civil Air Patrol, generally shut down.

The original order, issued July 18, limited military and civilian flying to that "necessary for the war effort." Later the order was modified so that the western boundary of the area (which stretches from Maine to the Carolinas) was a line running through Pottstown, Pa.

William S. Anderson, wing commander of the Pennsylvania Civil Air Patrol, said he understood "some airports have asked for extension of time to move flying schools out of the restricted zone." Air lines, under the original order, may operate in the area on specified air channels.

Transfer Projects

Earlier, Anderson said a half dozen pilot training programs would be transferred and that instruction in the area would come to a dead stop. Under the program, private airport operators provide basic training for fliers with the understanding that those making the grade will enter the Air Corps.

The ban on flying in the eastern part of the state halted plans of the CAP for a state-wide courier service between war plants and subcontractors.

Anderson announced, however, that the service would get underway Monday at York but that no planes would enter the restricted zone. He said as a start the program would be limited to 10 plants in the vicinity of York.

GRANGE MASTER ASKS FREEZING OF EVERYTHING

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, advised the nation today that the first step to halt inflation should be to "freeze everything temporarily."

Goss, in a prepared radio address, said "some mistakes have been made which threaten to break down our whole price control program," and recommended steps to halt inflation, including these:

1—Freeze everything temporarily, including wages.

2—Recognize the fact that it will be necessary for all to accept somewhat lower standards of living.

3—Abandon the idea that all increased living costs must be accompanied by increased income.

4—Permit necessary price adjustments, up or down, where profits are excessive.

Adjustments of Wages

5—Permit adjustments of substandard wages or cases where injustices or inequities are shown, but not to exceed 2½ per cent annually in the general wage level.

The Grange master also advised a comprehensive research into the question "of a practical base for determining that portion of the national income which should in justice go to industry, labor and agriculture."

"Use cash subsidies only as a last resort," said Goss. "If they become necessary, let them be applied at the point of processing or distribution where profits and prices can be kept under rigid control."

Chile's President Will Visit U.S.

Santiago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The announcement that President Juan Antonio Rios would visit the United States this fall was taken by political leaders today as a sign that Chile was veering sharply toward a break with the Axis.

If Chile should join her 19 sister republics in the continental solidarity front, Argentina would be left alone as the only American nation on friendly terms with the Axis.

A large segment of Chilean opinion is ardently anti-Axis and some political leaders who have been campaigning for a break predict that it now is inevitable—perhaps even before Rios starts out in mid-October as President Roosevelt's invited guest.

Informed sources speculated that protection for Chile's 2,600-mile Pacific coast would be a main point of any discusisons in Washington. Weak defenses have been advanced frequently as the explanation for Chile's abstention from the Rio de Janeiro accords which bound most of the Americas together against the Axis.

Informed sources said Rios would be acompanied by high army, navy and air officers and representatives of both houses of the legislature.

Aleutian Islands Could Be Retaken

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Aug. 15 (AP)—The high price paid by the Japanese for their toehold on the Aleutians may well turn out to be a bad bargain, if and when the Americans deem it necessary to oust them.

A naval officer and eyewitness to recent fighting in the fog-shrouded Aleutians today expressed the opinion that "unquestionably" the islands could be retaken if needed.

The officer, whose name cannot be disclosed for reasons of security, said that "if the Japanese try any major attack eastward to the stronghold at Dutch Harbor, they're due for a surprise.

"Right now," he said, "they haven't got much as to a strategic or useful location."

Move Material Out Of Abandoned Camp

Rumors that gained wide circulation in Gettysburg Friday that an officers' training school would be set up on the Battlefield were unfounded, The Gettysburg Times learned upon investigation.

The activity at CCC camp No. 2 proved to be the removal of the last batch of material from the abandoned camp site. Today all that remains are the wooden barracks. What disposition the Army, which now has jurisdiction over CCC camps, will make of the buildings is not known.

tence on a serious charge involving nearly a score of Littlestown youths. The court ordered her to stay out of Adams county. If she returns, she will be re-arrested.

Denies Parole

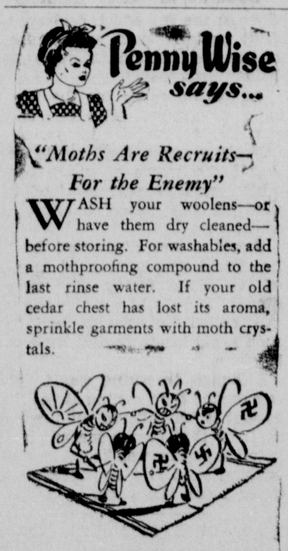

The county jail cannot be used to avoid military service by persons who later seek paroles, Judge Sheely ruled today as he refused "absolutely" to consider a petition for a parole for Willis Worley, Two Taverns, submitted by Richard A. Brown, Esq.

When Worley was sent to jail for six months two months ago for furnishing beer to minors, he was classified 1-A and wa about to be drafted. Since being jailed, his classification has been dropped to 4-F, the court disclosed. Now he and his parents seek a parole for him so that he can work on his parents' farm.

The petition was withdrawn by Mr. Brown.

A divorce action was opened in court this morning by J. Francis Yake, Esq., for George Leroy Himes, Biglerville R. 1, against Helen Irene (Cutshall) Himes. The divorce is sought on grounds of desertion. A subpoena was issued and made returnable September 21.

DEMOCRATS TO HEAR LEADERS

Reading, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania's young Democrats lighted political fireworks today to touch off their party's state campaign with speeches by a host of big-gun orators.

Approximately 1,000 delegates from all the State's 67 counties began the windup of their two-day convention with a general business session at which the politics and issues of a war were slated for airing.

Speakers listed today were U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey; David Lawrence, State Democratic chairman; Auditor General F. Clair Ross, candidate for governor, and numerous others.

Gas Dealers Must See Ration Sticker

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration cautioned service stations in the Eastern rationed area today that they are authorized to sell gasoline only to motorists whose cars display ration book stickers.

Local ration boards are expected to complete action on all pending applications for supplemental rations by August 20, Joel Dean, OPA Fuel Rationing director, reported, and all cars will be required to display stickers after that date.

Predicts Spain Will Join Axis

Mexico City, Aug. 15 (AP)—Spain's quick entry into the war on the side of the Axis powers was forecast today by Diego Martinez Marrio, onetime president of the Spanish Republican legislature who still is regarded by many of his fellow refugees as the legal head of the Spanish state.

Should his forecast be fulfilled, Martinez Marrio declared he would attempt the formal establishment of a Spanish Republican government-in-exile in Mexico and cease its active alignment with the United Nations.

BRONX PROBES MYSTERY ODOR

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

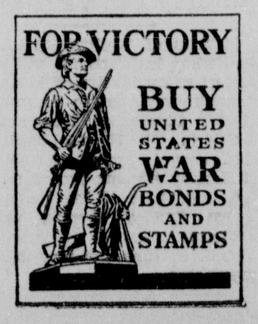

Something is being done but without result, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again.

The afflicted area is in Alcason Point, a section of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of rotten eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tarnishes metals.

There is one ray of sunshine—a property owner said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

SOME BOARDS NEED 1-A MEN

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Some of Pennsylvania's 422 local draft boards fell short in "a very small degree" of filling their August quotas of 1-A registrants, Col. B. F. Evans said today.

Evans, acting director of Selective Service for Pennsylvania, said the situation was disclosed in reports covering the first eight days of August and added:

"This condition may exist for a very short time but it won't exist for very long. There are adequate pools of men in reserve and the quotas will be made up."

He blamed the situation principally on the length of time needed to process registrants in accordance with new dependency provisions, adding that "many local boards haven't had time to process men to take the place of those previously classified as 1-A but placed in 3-A under new regulations."

Heavy enlistments "rather general over the state" have also been a factor, Evans said.

"One local board lost 40 men classified 1-A who were ready for induction but enlisted at the last minute," he declared.

The director explained it could take as long as 40 to 45 days to process a man who exercised his right of hearing before the local board and carried his case through the appeal board.

Under the new law all single men—including those in the fifth registration—must be inducted before other sources are tapped."

LEGIONNAIRES CURB ROWDYISM

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—The State American Legion, holding its annual convention here next week, is taking steps to prevent rowdyism.

Allegheny county Commander Harry W. Schreiver said the legion will have its own police detail of 38 men. Police Lieutenant Charles W. Bartsch, a legion district deputy commander chosen to head the detail, said the detail's main object will be "to stop any rowdyism," adding:

"We are trying to bring the National American Legion convention here in 1944 and so we want to make a good showing. Any Legionnaire who destroys anything hurts the war effort because it takes time to replace it. So, that's out."

New York Yankees Set Another Major League Mark With Seven Double Plays

COOPER TWIRLS 7TH SHUTOUT IN DEFEATING REDS

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Arc light baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the champions when they begin wiping runners off the base paths with their defense specialty, known to the trade as the double play.

Holders of the major league record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1925, and tied by four other teams. The Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

May Set New Mark

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

In another night contest, Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati, blanking the Reds on two hits.

The shutout, 13th of the year for the Cards, was Cooper's seventh and his third two-hitter. It brought his record to 14 victories, against a half dozen defeats. He fanned six batters and walked none.

At New York, King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the New York Giants triumphed, 5-2. Two of the Philadelphia hits were homers by Danny Litwhiler and Ron Northey.

Dodgers Gain

"Bean balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped the Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3, in the first meeting of the two teams since their "duster" throwing provoked a new league rule against the practice.

Dolph Camilli hit a home run in each game, with two mates on base in the first and one in the second, to bring his total to 19 and tie Johnny Mize of the Giants for the league lead.

The Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up Lon Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack, including homers by Bill Nicholson and Stan Hack.

In the only other game in the American league, Hal White tossed a four-hitter at the Chicago White Sox as the Detroit Tigers triumphed, 7-1.

MORE HELP IS SENT TO MALTA; CRUISER SUNK

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—The admiralty announced Friday the loss of the cruiser Manchester during extensive operations in the Mediterranean.

The official British report on the great naval action which Axis sources have reported raging since Tuesday, said "the operations resulted in supplies and reinforcements" reaching Malta.

The communique declared a force of enemy cruisers which sought to intercept the big convoy was attacked by British aircraft and turned back.

At least one Axis submarine has been sunk in this action, in addition to the one already announced after sinking of the British aircraft carrier Eagle, it added.

Get Fighter Planes

The Manchester was a 9,400-ton cruiser completed Aug. 4, 1938. She usually carried 700 men. Her main battery consisted of 12 6-inch guns. Carrying three planes, she was one of six of the Newcastle class of cruisers.

"These operations have resulted in supplies and reinforcements reaching the fortress of Malta despite very heavy enemy concentrations designed to prevent their passage," the communique said.

"The reinforcements include a number of fighter aircraft.

"Measures taken by the enemy consisted of packs of U-boats, large numbers of torpedo-carrying and dive-bombing aircraft and strong forces of E-boats (torpedo boats) operating in the central narrows. x x x

"The enemy cruiser force, however, never came within range of our ships and turned back on being attacked by aircraft. Results of this attack were not observed. x x x

"Destruction of one U-boat has already been announced, and it now is certain that at least one more has been sunk.

SUPULSKI WITH EAGLES

Carlisle, Pa., Aug. 15—Len Supulski, who rated as the nation's leading pass receiver last fall as a member of the Dickinson college football team, has reported to the Philadelphia Eagles and is now in training with them at Two Rivers, Wisconsin.

Continue Suspension Of Lewistown High

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—The suspension of Lewistown high school athletic teams from PIAA competition, causing cancellation of 10 football games this fall, was continued for another year at a special meeting of District 6 of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association here yesterday.

The district 6 officials also approved cancellation of all football games which would require district teams to make long trips or be away from home overnight.

Action on the Lewistown suspension, originally made for violating eligibility rules, followed a hearing requested by Lewistown officials. The suspension extension cancels games with Selinsgrove, Hanover, Hershey Industrial, Westmont, Windber, Lock Haven, Altoona, Mt. Union, Ferndale and Hollidaysburg.

PRECIOUS PIGSKIN

Bill Bingham, Harvard's director of athletics, is urging Coach Dick Harlow to win every game this fall so he won't have to give any precious footballs to the bisiting teams . . . "Of course, if the visiting team insists on winning despite everything that Dick and his players try," Bingham adds, "We might take a photograph of the victorious captain receiving the football and present the photo to him . . . and keep the ball."

Fights Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

New Orleans—Charles Burley, 160, Pittsburgh, won by technical knockout from Holman Williams, 156¾, Detroit (9).

Elizabeth, N. J.—Marvin Bryant, 148, Dallas, Texas, outpointed Buddy Farrell, 149, Newark (10).

Waterbury, Conn.—Willie Roach, 130, Wilmington, Del., outpointed Matt Dougherty, 134½, Milwaukee (8).

Fort Hamilton, N. Y.—Johnny Colan, 180½, New York, outpointed Tommy Campanella, 176, New York (8).

DICKINSON TO START DRILLS NEXT MONDAY

Dickinson college will open preliminary football drills under the direction of Assistant Coach Richard H. MacAndrews on Monday afternoon, it was revealed today. The Red Devils will open their six-game fall campaign against Washington and Jefferson at Biddle Field on October 17.

The veteran MacAndrews, who also is head coach of basketball and baseball, will be in charge of the football drills which will consist largely of conditioning work until the return of Benny James, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur D. Kahler who is now a lieutenant in the United States Navy stationed at Lakehurst, New Jersey. James is now doing graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and will return to the campus the beginning of next month to take over the head coaching duties.

Dickinson athletic officials expressed optimism over the prospects for the coming season pointing out that the college's compulsory physical education program which is designed to toughen men for the future military service has uncovered more than a score of students who have expressed the intention of coming out for football for the first time. An enlarged squad plus the return of Doug Rehor, one of the nation's outstanding passers as a sophomore here last season, plus other veterans will eliminate the chief cause of last season's mediocre showing which was due to a lack of sufficient material.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

Scranton probably would like nothing better than to play Williamsport all the time in the Eastern league.

The Miners beat the Grays, 4 to 1, last night for the 12th time in 14 meetings.

The win kept the Miners in second place, one game behind Albany, which beat the last-place Springfield Rifles, 5 to 2.

The third-place Wilkes-Barre Barons put on a ninth inning finish to nose out Elmira, 6 to 5.

Hartford and Binghamton split a doubleheader. Binghamton took the opener, 5 to 1, and lost 6 to 0, in the nightcap.

PURCHASE 4,000 TICKETS

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—Four thousand tickets for the benefit football game here Saturday night, September 5, between the Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Bears have been purchased by the Westinghouse Clerks' association.

Terry Concedes Brooks Are Smart

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP)—Bill Terry, general manager of the New York Giants who once wondered if Brooklyn was in the National league, cocked his foot on the back of a hotel chair today and allowed as how the Dodgers had a right smart ball club.

Terry, who came here to look over the fielding and batting wares of one Luis Olmo, of the Richmond Colts, even went so far as to say that Brooklyn had more than a "chance" to whip the New York Yankees if they meet in the world series.

"They can get a lot out of their players. That town really makes a player hustle," the 44-year-old former manager and first baseman for the Giants chuckled. "Leo Durocher has done a remarkable job."

OCCUPATION IS PICK TO TAKE FUTURITY RACE

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—Occupation, a fast-worker who has picked up $59,100 in four months of racing, goes to the post today heavily backed to win the $69,875 Washington Park Futurity.

Making his bid for the 1942 juvenile money winning title, the spritely colt, owned by John Marsch, a Chicago contractor, was top weighted at 122 pounds in a field of 11 horses named overnight. Jockey Lester Balaski will be aboard.

If Occupation wins the six furlongs classic—richest juvenile race of the year—his earnings will soar to $117,575. The winners' share will be $58,475.

Not even Alsab, the 1941 leading juvenile money winner, was anywhere near the $100,000 mark after scoring in the Futurity a year ago Alsab will run in today's supporting feature, the $2,500 South Chicago purse.

Occupation has beaten half the horses that face him today, including Kentucky-owned Littletown, which holds the only two decisions against him. Horses he has not raced with before are Count Fleet, the impressive winner in the east, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz; Hygrohour, Likeasnot and War Knight, owned by Mrs. Ethel Hill, Hollywood script writer.

CATCHER, 19, IS MADE MANAGER

Washington, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Kenneth Graham, 19-year-old catcher of the Washington Redskins, who was named manager yesterday, made a successful debut in the Penn State association last night, leading the Redskins to a 4-1 victory over Johnstown.

Elmer Daily, league president and promotional director of the minor leagues throughout the country, said at Ebensburg Graham was probably the youngest manager in organized baseball. His appointment followed indefinite suspension of Warren Fralick of Springfield, Ohio.

Fralick was suspended Daily said, after refusing to get his team off the field during a dispute of an umpire's decision Wednesday night. The game was forfeited to Butler.

Daily sharply reprimanded Fralick yesterday, saying:

"This is the worst thing that could happen in baseball—that a manager could let his players get so far out of hand that the game is forfeited.

"Fralick defied the umpire and stormed around the field, instead of getting his club to play ball. I have no use for that kind of business and the penalty will be worse in the future."

Daily said he would fine Fralick but that he had not yet determined the amount.

"REDS" HARTMAN TO AID DRACHA AT DELONE HI

Lee M. "Reds" Hartman, prothonotary of Adams county, was selected as assistant football coach at Delone Catholic high school, McSherrystown, at a meeting of the school board Friday evening.

Hartman will assist Wilmer "Jake" Dracha, East Middle street, who was named coach this week.

The Cashtown athlete starred as a tackle for four years at Gettysburg high school, captaining the team in his senior year. In 1931 he captained the Gettysburg college freshman team. He was a varsity lineman at West Chester State Teachers' college for the following two years. He also played three years of semi-pro ball with the York White Roses.

Coach Dracha has announced he will meet with his squad on August 23 with regular drills starting Monday, August 24.

Rockefeller Center, in New York, is the largest privately-owned business and entertainment center in America.

WOMEN VETS IN TITLE BATTLE

BY DAVE HOFF

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The teen age golfers, who made quite a splurge in the western open in June, were all on the sidelines of the women's western amateur today as a pair of veterans—Mrs. Russell Mann, 30, of Omaha, Neb., and Betty Jameson, 23, of San Antonio, Tex., put on the championship show at Sunset Ridge.

Mrs. Mann, who has been at this business for some 15 seasons, and Miss Jameson, a veteran of 11 campaigns, went after the championship over the 36 hole route, 18 in the morning and the balance in the afternoon.

These girls not only have been through the tournament mill before, but also have had a good share of championship cups in the last 10 years.

Mrs. Mann, for instance, won the title as Lucille Robinson in 1933. She took it again last year. Thus today she sought to be the fifth golfer in history to win two straight amateur titles and the seventh ever to win three.

Miss Jameson grabbed this year's western open and was in line to be the first girl ever to win both women's western golf association events in a single summer. She also took the amateur once before, in 1940, when she beat the late Marion Miley, 6 and 5. Betty's record also recalls her double win in the national in 1939 and 1940.

Stagg Will Be 80 Years Old Sunday

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 15 (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg is a little too busy to bother with an 80th birthday.

He'd hoped to celebrate the occasion in Chicago next Sunday—but last-minute duties as both head football coach and first assistant at College of the Pacific delayed his departure.

He won't reach Chicago until Monday, and will hustle to the Macatawa, Michigan, summer camp of his son, Paul and A. A., Jr., for a brief vacation.

MORE OFFENSE SAYS CRISLER

BY LOUDON KELLY

Denver, Aug. 15 (AP)—Michigan's Fritz Crisler, who isn't talking through his hat when it comes to football, predicts that daring, take-a-chance offenses will be unreeled on the nation's gridirons this fall.

"I look for offense to be stressed ahead of defense this year more than ever before," the tall, dapper coach said, "with more wide open play, more tricks. Quarterbacks will gamble more, and so will coaches."

Crisler, here for a coaches' school, tutored one of the squads in last night's all-star high school contest.

The Michigan coach, for many years in the upper hierarchy of America's gridiron leaders, had further good news for the fans who barely exist between football seasons:

Same Calibre

"I don't think the caliber of college football will fall off any. At least, the fans shouldn't see any difference from peacetime years.

"The increased physical training courses at colleges have turned up potential players who might never have thought of trying their hands at football.

Crisler believes the bowl games will be played as usual New Year's Day, "although service teams may play in some of them."

Any more Tommy Harmons in sight at Michigan?"

"Nope," grinned Crisler, "there'll never be another Tommy Harmon."

Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Curt Davis, Whitlow Wyatt and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers—Davis and Wyatt pitched double victory over Braves, with help of Camilli, who hit two home runs.

Carl Hubbell and Mickey Witek, Giants—former tossed four-hitter against Phils and latter led Giants with three hits, driving in two runs.

Tommy Henrich, Yankees—drove in four runs, two with homer, in leading victorious attack against Athletics.

Mort Cooper, Cardinals—pitched two-hit shutout against Reds.

Hal White, Tigers—stopped White Sox with four hitter.

Lon Warneke, Cubs—beat Pirates on seven hits.

SOLDIER TAKES OWN LIFE

Harborcreek, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Private Burton E. Neff, 35, killed himself with a shotgun while at the home of his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Glow Neff, Deputy Coroner Frank St. George reported yesterday. St. George attributing the suicide to Neff's illness since he was drafted last April, said the soldier shot himself a few hours after arriving on a furlough Thursday night from Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

GOOD-NEIGHBOR SCHOOL CLASS IS GRADUATED

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Today was graduation day at the good-neighbor school with half a hundred amateur ambassadors going forth to do or die for Teacher Uncle Sam.

Yet you wouldn't have guessed that a new deal in inter-American relations was coming off. It looked more like a June afternoon back in the little red schoolhouse.

All dressed up, the students marched into the assembly room for their commencement play. Afterward they received—not diplomas—but phonograph records. Then in the best red-schoolhouse tradition the pupils trooped off to wash up for the commencement party.

It's the inter-American training center—sponsored by the Washington Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American affairs in the interests of good neighbor-ism.

The students—seven anthropologists, twice as many teachers, a photographer, a girl reporter—have just wound up a stiff, eight-week drilling in the P's and Q's of getting along below the Rio Grande.

To make sure nothing was overlooked that polite Yanquis "down under" ought to know, Uncle Sam imported South American teachers. Students were professional people intending to work in South America.

And those phonograph records handed out at commencement? They were samples of each student's voice to let him check how well he had learned Spanish, having heard little else but the past eight weeks.

CRUSHED UNDER TRACTOR

Erie, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Deputy Coroner Frank St. George reported Andrew Kulesa, 28, of near Waterford, died yesterday of injuries suffered when he was crushed under a tractor. St. George said Kulesa lost control of the machine which plunged over an embankment.

New York Yankees Set Another Major League Mark With Seven Double Plays

COOPER TWIRLS 7TH SHUTOUT IN DEFEATING REDS

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Arc light baseball has no greater foe than the New York Yankees, but the absence of the sun doesn't seem to bother the champions when they begin wiping runners off the base paths with their defense specialty, known to the trade as the double play.

Holders of the major league record for twin killings in a season, the Yankees established a new mark for a single game last night when they completed seven while walloping the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2.

The old record for nine innings was six, set by the Cincinnati Reds in 1925, and tied by four other teams. The Washington Senators, only American leaguers sharing in the record, were the last to tie it in 1933.

May Set New Mark

With 43 games in front of them, they need only 47 more double plays to crack the record of 196 for a 154-game season which they set last year.

In another night contest, Mort Cooper hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati, blanking the Reds on two hits.

The shutout, 13th of the year for the Cards, was Cooper's seventh and his third two-hitter. It brought his record to 14 victories, against a half dozen defeats. He fanned six batters and walked none.

At New York, King Carl Hubbell tossed a four-hitter at the Philadelphia Phils as the New York Giants triumphed, 5-2. Two of the Philadelphia hits were homers by Danny Litwhiler and Ron Northey.

Dodgers Gain

"Bean balls" were forgotten at Brooklyn, where the Dodgers walloped the Boston Braves, 10-0 and 7-3, in the first meeting of the two teams since their "duster" throwing provoked a new league rule against the practice.

Dolph Camilli hit a home run in each game, with two mates on base in the first and one in the second, to bring his total to 19 and tie Johnny Mize of the Giants for the league lead.

The Chicago Cubs downed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, backing up Lon Warneke's seven-hit pitching with an 18-blow attack, including homers by Bill Nicholson and Stan Hack.

In the only other game in the American league, Hal White tossed a four-hitter at the Chicago White Sox as the Detroit Tigers triumphed, 7-1.

MORE HELP IS SENT TO MALTA; CRUISER SUNK

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—The admiralty announced Friday the loss of the cruiser Manchester during extensive operations in the Mediterranean.

The official British report on the great naval action which Axis sources have reported raging since Tuesday, said "the operations resulted in supplies and reinforcements" reaching Malta.

The communique declared a force of enemy cruisers which sought to intercept the big convoy was attacked by British aircraft and turned back.

At least one Axis submarine has been sunk in this action, in addition to the one already announced after sinking of the British aircraft carrier Eagle, it added.

Get Fighter Planes

The Manchester was a 9,400-ton cruiser completed Aug. 4, 1938. She usually carried 700 men. Her main battery consisted of 12 6-inch guns. Carrying three planes, she was one of six of the Newcastle class of cruisers.

"These operations have resulted in supplies and reinforcements reaching the fortress of Malta despite very heavy enemy concentrations designed to prevent their passage," the communique said.

"The reinforcements include a number of fighter aircraft.

"Measures taken by the enemy consisted of packs of U-boats, large numbers of torpedo-carrying and dive-bombing aircraft and strong forces of E-boats (torpedo boats) operating in the central narrows. x x x

"The enemy cruiser force, however, never came within range of our ships and turned back on being attacked by aircraft. Results of this attack were not observed. x x x

"Destruction of one U-boat has already been announced, and it now is certain that at least one more has been sunk.

SUPULSKI WITH EAGLES

Carlisle, Pa., Aug. 15—Len Supulski, who rated as the nation's leading pass receiver last fall as a member of the Dickinson college football team, has reported to the Philadelphia Eagles and is now in training with them at Two Rivers, Wisconsin.

Continue Suspension Of Lewistown High

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—The suspension of Lewistown high school athletic teams from PIAA competition, causing cancellation of 10 football games this fall, was continued for another year at a special meeting of District 6 of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association here yesterday.

The district 6 officials also approved cancellation of all football games which would require district teams to make long trips or be away from home overnight.

Action on the Lewistown suspension, originally made for violating eligibility rules, followed a hearing requested by Lewistown officials. The suspension extension cancels games with Selinsgrove, Hanover, Hershey Industrial, Westmont, Windber, Lock Haven, Altoona, Mt. Union, Ferndale and Hollidaysburg.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

John McGill, Jr., Ashland (Ky.) Daily Independent: "Buddy Rosar, New York Yankee catcher who was fined $250 for leaving the club to take a Buffalo police civil service examination, was unsuccessful in his attempt to gain a position on the force. After looking at George Case's base-stealing record in the American loop, the Buffalo commission probably figured Buddy didn't 'get his man' often enough to be a cap."

PRECIOUS PIGSKIN

Bill Bingham, Harvard's director of athletics, is urging Coach Dick Harlow to win every game this fall so he won't have to give any precious footballs to the bisiting teams . . . "Of course, if the visiting team insists on winning despite everything that Dick and his players try," Bingham adds, "We might take a photograph of the victorious captain receiving the football and present the photo to him . . . and keep the ball."

New Orleans—Charles Burley, 160, Pittsburgh, won by technical knockout from Holman Williams, 156¾, Detroit (9).

Elizabeth, N. J.—Marvin Bryant, 148, Dallas, Texas, outpointed Buddy Farrell, 149, Newark (10).

Waterbury, Conn.—Willie Roach, 130, Wilmington, Del., outpointed Matt Dougherty, 134½, Milwaukee (8).

Fort Hamilton, N. Y.—Johnny Colan, 180½, New York, outpointed Tommy Campanella, 176, New York (8).

DICKINSON TO START DRILLS NEXT MONDAY

Dickinson college will open preliminary football drills under the direction of Assistant Coach Richard H. MacAndrews on Monday afternoon, it was revealed today. The Red Devils will open their six-game fall campaign against Washington and Jefferson at Biddle Field on October 17.

The veteran MacAndrews, who also is head coach of basketball and baseball, will be in charge of the football drills which will consist largely of conditioning work until the return of Benny James, who has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Arthur D. Kahler who is now a lieutenant in the United States Navy stationed at Lakehurst, New Jersey. James is now doing graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and will return to the campus the beginning of next month to take over the head coaching duties.

Dickinson athletic officials expressed optimism over the prospects for the coming season pointing out that the college's compulsory physical education program which is designed to toughen men for the future military service has uncovered more than a score of students who have expressed the intention of coming out for football for the first time. An enlarged squad plus the return of Doug Rehor, one of the nation's outstanding passers as a sophomore here last season, plus other veterans will eliminate the chief cause of last season's mediocre showing which was due to a lack of sufficient material.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

Scranton probably would like nothing better than to play Williamsport all the time in the Eastern league.

The Miners beat the Grays, 4 to 1, last night for the 12th time in 14 meetings.

The win kept the Miners in second place, one game behind Albany, which beat the last-place Springfield Rifles, 5 to 2.

The third-place Wilkes-Barre Barons put on a ninth inning finish to nose out Elmira, 6 to 5.

Hartford and Binghamton split a doubleheader. Binghamton took the opener, 5 to 1, and lost 6 to 0, in the nightcap.

PURCHASE 4,000 TICKETS

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—Four thousand tickets for the benefit football game here Saturday night, September 5, between the Pittsburgh Steelers and Chicago Bears have been purchased by the Westinghouse Clerks' association.

Terry Concedes Brooks Are Smart

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15 (AP)—Bill Terry, general manager of the New York Giants who once wondered if Brooklyn was in the National league, cocked his foot on the back of a hotel chair today and allowed as how the Dodgers had a right smart ball club.

Terry, who came here to look over the fielding and batting wares of one Luis Olmo, of the Richmond Colts, even went so far as to say that Brooklyn had more than a "chance" to whip the New York Yankees if they meet in the world series.

"They can get a lot out of their players. That town really makes a player hustle," the 44-year-old former manager and first baseman for the Giants chuckled. "Leo Durocher has done a remarkable job."

OCCUPATION IS PICK TO TAKE FUTURITY RACE

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—Occupation, a fast-worker who has picked up $59,100 in four months of racing, goes to the post today heavily backed to win the $69,875 Washington Park Futurity.

Making his bid for the 1942 juvenile money winning title, the spritely colt, owned by John Marsch, a Chicago contractor, was top weighted at 122 pounds in a field of 11 horses named overnight. Jockey Lester Balaski will be aboard.

If Occupation wins the six furlongs classic—richest juvenile race of the year—his earnings will soar to $117,575. The winners' share will be $58,475.

Not even Alsab, the 1941 leading juvenile money winner, was anywhere near the $100,000 mark after scoring in the Futurity a year ago Alsab will run in today's supporting feature, the $2,500 South Chicago purse.

Occupation has beaten half the horses that face him today, including Kentucky-owned Littletown, which holds the only two decisions against him. Horses he has not raced with before are Count Fleet, the impressive winner in the east, owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz; Hygrohour, Likeasnot and War Knight, owned by Mrs. Ethel Hill, Hollywood script writer.

CATCHER, 19, IS MADE MANAGER

Washington, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Kenneth Graham, 19-year-old catcher of the Washington Redskins, who was named manager yesterday, made a successful debut in the Penn State association last night, leading the Redskins to a 4-1 victory over Johnstown.

Elmer Daily, league president and promotional director of the minor leagues throughout the country, said at Ebensburg Graham was probably the youngest manager in organized baseball. His appointment followed indefinite suspension of Warren Fralick of Springfield, Ohio.

Fralick was suspended Daily said, after refusing to get his team off the field during a dispute of an umpire's decision Wednesday night. The game was forfeited to Butler.

Daily sharply reprimanded Fralick yesterday, saying:

"This is the worst thing that could happen in baseball—that a manager could let his players get so far out of hand that the game is forfeited.

"Fralick defied the umpire and stormed around the field, instead of getting his club to play ball. I have no use for that kind of business and the penalty will be worse in the future."

Daily said he would fine Fralick but that he had not yet determined the amount.

"REDS" HARTMAN TO AID DRACHA AT DELONE HI

Lee M. "Reds" Hartman, prothonotary of Adams county, was selected as assistant football coach at Delone Catholic high school, McSherrystown, at a meeting of the school board Friday evening.

Hartman will assist Wilmer "Jake" Dracha, East Middle street, who was named coach this week.

The Cashtown athlete starred as a tackle for four years at Gettysburg high school, captaining the team in his senior year. In 1931 he captained the Gettysburg college freshman team. He was a varsity lineman at West Chester State Teachers' college for the following two years. He also played three years of semi-pro ball with the York White Roses.

Coach Dracha has announced he will meet with his squad on August 25 with regular drills starting Monday, August 24.

WOMEN VETS IN TITLE BATTLE

BY DAVE HOFF

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The teen age golfers, who made quite a splurge in the western open in June, were all on the sidelines of the women's western amateur today as a pair of veterans—Mrs. Russell Mann, 30, of Omaha, Neb., and Betty Jameson, 23, of San Antonio, Tex., put on the championship show at Sunset Ridge.

Mrs. Mann, who has been at this business for some 15 seasons, and Miss Jameson, a veteran of 11 campaigns, went after the championship over the 36 hole route, 18 in the morning and the balance in the afternoon.

These girls not only have been through the tournament mill before, but also have had a good share of championship cups in the last 10 years.

Mrs. Mann, for instance, won the title as Lucille Robinson in 1933. She took it again last year. Thus today she sought to be the fifth golfer in history to win two straight amateur titles and the seventh ever to win three.

Miss Jameson grabbed this year's western open and was in line to be the first girl ever to win both women's western golf association events in a single summer. She also took the amateur once before, in 1940, when she beat the late Marion Miley, 6 and 5. Betty's record also recalls her double win in the national in 1939 and 1940.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thoman, of near here, had as a guest during the week PFC David Hughes, Camp Lee, Virginia.

Otis Livingston is a patient at the Hanover General Hospital where he was removed on Sunday by the ambulance.

Stagg Will Be 80 Years Old Sunday

Stockton, Calif., Aug. 15 (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg is a little too busy to bother with an 80th birthday.

He'd hoped to celebrate the occasion in Chicago next Sunday—but last-minute duties as both head football coach and first assistant at College of the Pacific delayed his departure.

He won't reach Chicago until Monday, and will hustle to the Macatawa, Michigan, summer camp of his son, Paul and A. A., Jr., for a brief vacation.

MORE OFFENSE SAYS CRISLER

BY LOUDON KELLY

Denver, Aug. 15 (AP)—Michigan's Fritz Crisler, who isn't talking through his hat when it comes to football, predicts that daring, take-a-chance offenses will be unreeled on the nation's gridirons this fall.

"I look for offense to be stressed ahead of defense this year more than ever before," the tall, dapper coach said, "with more wide open play, more tricks. Quarterbacks will gamble more, and so will coaches."

Crisler, here for a coaches' school, tutored one of the squads in last night's all-star high school contest.

The Michigan coach, for many years in the upper hierarchy of America's gridiron leaders, had further good news for the fans who barely exist between football seasons:

Same Calibre

"I don't think the caliber of college football will fall off any. At least, the fans shouldn't see any difference from peacetime years.

"The increased physical training courses at colleges have turned up potential players who might never have thought of trying their hands at football.

Crisler believes the bowl games will be played as usual New Year's Day, "although service teams may play in some of them."

Any more Tommy Harmons in sight at Michigan?"

"Nope," grinned Crisler, "there'll never be another Tommy Harmon."

Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Curt Davis, Whitlow Wyatt and Dolph Camilli, Dodgers—Davis and Wyatt pitched double victory over Braves, with help of Camilli, who hit two home runs.

Carl Hubbell and Mickey Witek, Giants—former tossed four-hitter against Phils and latter led Giants with three hits, driving in two runs.

Tommy Henrich, Yankees—drove in four runs, two with homer, in leading victorious attack against Athletics.

Mort Cooper, Cardinals—pitched two-hit shutout against Reds.

Hal White, Tigers—stopped White Sox with four hitter.

Lon Warneke, Cubs—beat Pirates on seven hits.

SOLDIER TAKES OWN LIFE

Harborcreek, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Private Burton E. Neff, 35, killed himself with a shotgun while at the home of his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Glow Neff, Deputy Coroner Frank St. George reported yesterday. St. George attributing the suicide to Neff's illness since he was drafted last April, said the soldier shot himself a few hours after arriving on a furlough Thursday night from Fort. Bragg, North Carolina.

GOOD-NEIGHBOR SCHOOL CLASS IS GRADUATED

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP)—Today was graduation day at the good-neighbor school with half a hundred amateur ambassadors going forth to do or die for Teacher Uncle Sam.

Yet you wouldn't have guessed that a new deal in inter-American relations was coming off. It looked more like a June afternoon back in the little red schoolhouse.

All dressed up, the students marched into the assembly room for their commencement play. Afterward they received—not diplomas—but phonograph records. Then in the best red-schoolhouse tradition the pupils trooped off to wash up for the commencement party.

It's the inter-American training center—sponsored by the Washington Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American affairs in the interests of good neighbor-ism.

The students—seven anthropologists, twice as many teachers, a photographer, a girl reporter—have just wound up a stiff, eight-week drilling in the P's and Q's of getting along below the Rio Grande.

To make sure nothing was overlooked that polite Yanquis "down under" ought to know, Uncle Sam imported South American teachers. Students were professional people intending to work in South America.

And those phonograph records handed out at commencement? They were samples of each student's voice to let him check how well he had learned Spanish, having heard little else but the past eight weeks.

BRITISH RUN SEA GAUNTLET TO AID MALTA

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Once more the British have run the gauntlet of Axis warplanes and naval ships in the Mediterranean to deliver a big convoy of reinforcements and airplanes to the island of Malta, and the cost of this great engagement has been heavy for both sides.

Why should it be necessary for Britain thus to risk fighting equipment to serve an island which covers only ninety-five square miles and sits in the midst of an enemy-built hell?

The answer is that Malta is one of the most important strategic points, big or little, in the world. This island is the British air force observation post of the Mediterranean.

Powerful Base

It is the powerful base from which, once a foe is spotted, warplanes set out on their mission of destruction.

And it's from here that airmen fly to the aid of Allied shipping which has been attacked.

Malta no longer can be used as a naval base, excepting for submarines, because Hitler maintains a powerful force of warplanes in Mussolini's Sicily, only fifty-six miles north of the British island, and makes it too hot for shipping in Malta's otherwise fine harbors. However, the Nazi chief hasn't been able to drive the Royal Air Force out of this stronghold, despite one of the fiercest and most protracted aerial bombardments the war has known.

British air-scouts are constantly on the move over the Mediterranean from Malta. Their chief business, of course, is to spot enemy supply ships and transports headed from Axis ports in Europe to Africa.

Must Stop Rommel

This work is essential right now, because reinforcements and supplies must be kept from Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's desert forces at all hazards. His dangerous offensive against Egypt has been held up for lack of resources, and the British are praying that their opposing army under General Auchinleck can be reinforced so as to strike at Rommel before aid reaches him.

Should the British lose Malta it would permit the Axis to move shipping across the Mediterranean to Africa with comparative ease and Allied vessels would have difficulty in sailing this great thoroughfare.

INDIA ASSUMES NORMAL QUIET

Bombay, India, Aug. 15 (AP)—Abating violence in the "Do-or-Die" drive for Indian independence which Mahandas K. Gandhi had intended to be non-violent relaxed the grip of terror over India Friday.

One by one, mills and factories were reported reopening in Bombay, which had been the scene of the most turbulent outbreaks since Sunday.

With armed British security forces still patrolling and police and troops acting swiftly and firmly, however, there was some sporadic street fighting and vandalism elsewhere in the vast sub-continent.

Guest-Prisoner

At Dacca, one person was killed and several were injured, including policemen, when guards opened fire to protect a judge trying to save records from a crowd attempting to set them afire in a raid on a court.

At Poona, Gandhi remained the guest-like prisoner of the British which he had been since soon after the all-India Congress party made him generalissimo Sunday of a mass civil disobedience movement to oust the British from rule of India.

A barbed wire fence twice the little leader's height was more a barrier to keep his lieutenants out than to keep him in the magnificent, marble-floored palace of the Aga Khan.

Defense Blames Murder On Drugs

Camden, N. J. Aug. 15 (AP)—Attorney William Gottschalk leaned on testimony that John P. Lynch once threatened to slay his wife and daughter as he defended his client today in the May 21 slaying of Policeman George C. Miller.

Summoned as a star defense witness, Lynch's 18-year-old daughter tearfully declared the former Stratford Justice of the Peace threatened "to kill me and my mother last summer."

Lynch's wife also testified yesterday. The two women pictured Lynch as a once-kindly man who had become "nasty" and irritable through constant use of drugs.

The defense contends Lynch was crazed by an overdose of bromide at the time Miller was shot.

Pierre Esprit Radisson and Medard Chouart, French explorers, were the first white men known to have set foot within what is now Minnesota.

Must Fill Freight Cars To Capacity

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman today ordered that freight cars carrying civilian freight must be loaded to their marked load limit, or to full visible capacity.

Tank cars, flat cars, and cars containing less-than-carload freight were exempted from the order.

Eastman said the purpose was to obtain more efficient use of cars and locomotives. Railroad motive power now was being used to a point close to capacity, Eastman said, and "we must get the greatest possible use out of the existing railroad plants."

Death

William G. Nell

William G. Nell, New Oxford R. D. 3, died at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the West Side sanitarium, York, where he had been undergoing treatment. He was a son of the late Michael and Susanna Harbolt Nell and was 77 years old. Surviving are his wife, who before marriage was Mary Ellen Myers; two sons, Norman Nell, at home and Monroe Nell, New Oxford R. D. 3; one grandchild and one sister, Mrs. Orphia Myers, East Berlin. Mr. Nell was a member of the New Oxford Reformed church for many years.

The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with services at his late residence. Rev. Dobbs Ehlman, pastor of the New Oxford Reformed church, will officiate. Burial will be made in the New Oxford cemetery.

KANE IS HAVEN FOR HAY FEVER

Kane, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Hundreds of persons allergic to ragweed left their sniffles and sneezes behind them today to gather in this northwestern Pennsylvania mountain community which has become a haven for hay fever sufferers.

State officials predicted the hay fever season which opened today would be a "bad one" because heavy rains have increased the growth of weeds and the ground has been too wet to permit farmers to keep them under control.

This community, Pennsylvania's "icebox" in winter, is comparatively free of the ragweed pollen. As a result, the normal population of 6,133 today is swelled by hundreds from Atlantic coastal states and from the midwest.

Many here this year previously authorities said. The rubber shortauthorities said. The rubber hortage and gasoline curtailment have failed to decrease the number of visiting sufferers, townsfolk said. Heavier railroad passenger traffic has offset a drop in the number of motorists.

Families of Army officers stationed in the east are numerous this year. Borough and Chamber of Commerce officials report, the demand for cabins has been heavy and hotels and furnished rooms in private homes are popular.

To Junk Gunboat Constructed In 1844

Erie, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Scrap dealers will be asked to bid on junking the U. S. S. Wolverine, famous iron-hulled gunboat of the U. S. Navy which has been lying abandoned in Misery Bay two years.

City council authorized asking for bids yesterday after hearing James Purcell, president of the Niagara Historical Society, advocate preserving the ship for its historic value. It was constructed in 1844 by the firm of Stackhouse and Tomlinson.

Captain W. L. Morrison, U. S. Navy, retired, said he thought it would be "a fitting end for the Wolverine to be scrapped for the tanks and guns it would help produce. He was commanding officer of the vessel when it was taken out of service as a training ship.

EASTERN AREA FLYING "BAN" NOW IN EFFECT

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Deadline for rigid enforcement of recently announced flying regulations in the eastern "vital defense area" today found most civilian operations in Pennsylvania, including those of the Civil Air Patrol, generally shut down.

The original order, issued July 18, limited military and civilian flying to that "necessary for the war effort." Later the order was modified so that the western boundary of the area (which stretches from Maine to the Carolinas) was a line running through Pottstown, Pa.

William S. Anderson, wing commander of the Pennsylvania Civil Air Patrol, said he understood "some airports have asked for extension of time to move flying schools out of the restricted zone." Air lines, under the original order, may operate in the area on specified air channels.

Transfer Projects

Earlier, Anderson said a half dozen pilot training programs would be transferred and that instruction in the area would come to a dead stop. Under the program, private airport operators provide basic training for fliers with the understanding that those making the grade will enter the Air Corps.

The ban on flying in the eastern part of the state halted plans of the CAP for a state-wide courier service between war plants and subcontractors.

Anderson announced, however, that the service would get underway Monday at York but that no planes would enter the restricted zone. He said as a start the program would be limited to 10 plants in the vicinity of York.

GRANGE MASTER ASKS FREEZING OF EVERYTHING

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange, advised the nation today that the first step to halt inflation should be to "freeze everything temporarily."

Goss, in a prepared radio address, said "some mistakes have been made which threaten to break down our whole price control program," and recommended steps to halt inflation, including these:

1—Freeze everything temporarily, including wages.

2—Recognize the fact that it will be necessary for all to accept somewhat lower standards of living.

3—Abandon the idea that all increased living costs must be accompanied by increased income.

4—Permit necessary price adjustments, up or down, where profits are excessive.

Adjustments of Wages

5—Permit adjustments of substandard wages or cases where injustices or inequities are shown, but not to exceed 2½ per cent annually in the general wage level.

The Grange master also advised a comprehensive research into the question "of a practical base for determining that portion of the national income which should in justice go to industry, labor and agriculture."

"Use cash subsidies only as a last resort," said Goss. "If they become necessary, let them be applied at the point of processing or distribution where profits and prices can be kept under rigid control."

Chile's President Will Visit U.S.

Santiago, Aug. 15 (AP)—The announcement that President Juan Antonio Rios would visit the United States this fall was taken by political leaders today as a sign that Chile was veering sharply toward a break with the Axis.

If Chile should join her 19 sister republics in the continental solidarity front, Argentina would be left alone as the only American nation on friendly terms with the Axis.

A large segment of Chilean opinion is ardently anti-Axis and some political leaders who have been campaigning for a break predict that it now is inevitable—perhaps even before Rios starts out in mid-October as President Roosevelt's invited guest.

Informed sources speculated that protection for Chile's 2,600-mile Pacific coast would be a main point of any discussions in Washington. Weak defenses have been advanced frequently as the explanation for Chile's abstention from the Rio de Janeiro accords which bound most of the Americas together against the Axis.

Informed sources said Rios would be acompanied by high army, navy and air officers and representatives of both houses of the legislature.

INJURED EN ROUTE TO FUNERAL

Greensburg, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Three Pitcairn residents en route to a funeral at Altrobe were injured in an automobile accident near here yesterday. They were Carmella Ciccotelli, 39; his sister, Floran, 35, and Antonette Calabrese, 45.

Upper Communities

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Chronise, Roanoke, Virginia, are week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, Biglerville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hollabaugh and Roy Houck, Biglerville, were recent visitors in York.

Miss Ruth Carey, York, is spending the week-end at her home in Biglerville.

Robert Brinkerhoff, Niagara Falls, spent Friday with his mother, Mrs. Earl Miller, Biglerville. He will be inducted into the army Monday.

Aleutian Islands Could Be Retaken

Pearl Harbor, T. H., Aug. 15 (AP)—The high price paid by the Japanese for their toehold on the Aleutians may well turn out to be a bad bargain, if and when the Americans deem it necessary to oust them.

A naval officer and eyewitness to recent fighting in the fog-shrouded Aleutians today expressed the opinion that "unquestionably" the islands could be retaken if needed.

The officer, whose name cannot be disclosed for reasons of security, said that "if the Japanese try any major attack eastward to the stronghold at Dutch Harbor, they're due for a surprise.

"Right now," he said, "they haven't got much as to a strategic or useful location."

Move Material Out Of Abandoned Camp

Rumors that gained wide circulation in Gettysburg Friday that an officers' training school would be set up on the Battlefield were unfounded, The Gettysburg Times learned upon investigation.

The activity at CCC camp No. 2 proved to be the removal of the last batch of material from the abandoned camp site. Today all that remains are the wooden barracks. What disposition the Army, which now has jurisdiction over CCC camps, will make of the buildings is not known.

tence on a serious charge involving nearly a score of Littlestown youths. The court ordered her to stay out of Adams county. If she returns, she will be re-arrested.

Denies Parole

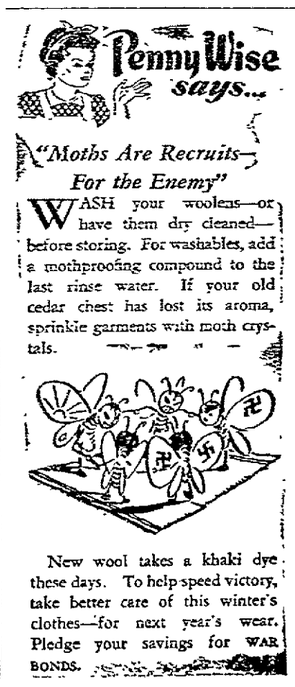

The county jail cannot be used to avoid military service by persons who later seek paroles, Judge Sheely ruled today as he refused "absolutely" to consider a petition for a parole for Willis Worley. Two Taverns, submitted by Richard A. Brown, Esq.

When Worley was sent to jail for six months two months ago for furnishing beer to minors, he was classified 1-A and wa about to be drafted. Since being jailed, his classification has been dropped to 4-F, the court disclosed. Now he and his parents seek a parole for him so that he can work on his parents' farm.

The petition was withdrawn by Mr. Brown.

A divorce action was opened in court this morning by J. Francis Yake, Esq., for George Leroy Himes, Biglerville R. 1, against Helen Irene (Cutshall) Himes. The divorce is sought on grounds of desertion. A subpoena was issued and made returnable September 21.

Prof. and Mrs. H. E. Bryan are on a vacation trip to Uniontown where they are visiting relatives.

D. C. Jacobs was admitted to the York hospital on Thursday night.

The Arendtsville Boy Scouts will make their monthly collection of waste paper on Monday evening. Residents are requested to have their paper ready on the pavement for pick up by the truck.

DEMOCRATS TO HEAR LEADERS

Reading, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—Pennsylvania's young Democrats lighted political fireworks today to touch off their party's state campaign with speeches by a host of big-gun orators.

Approximately 1,000 delegates from all the State's 67 counties began the windup of their two-day convention with a general business session at which the politics and issues of a war were slated for airing.

Speakers listed today were U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey; David Lawrence, State Democratic chairman; Auditor General F. Clair Ross, candidate for governor, and numerous others.

Gas Dealers Must See Ration Sticker

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration cautioned service stations in the Eastern rationed area today that they are authorized to sell gasoline only to motorists whose cars display ration book stickers.

Local ration boards are expected to complete action on all pending applications for supplemental rations by August 20, Joel Dean, OPA Fuel Rationing director, reported, and all cars will be required to display stickers after that date.

Predicts Spain Will Join Axis

Mexico City, Aug. 15 (AP)—Spain's quick entry into the war on the side of the Axis powers was forecast today by Diego Martinez Marrio, onetime president of the Spanish Republican legislature who still is regarded by many of his fellow refugees as the legal head of the Spanish state.

Should his forecast be fulfilled, Martinez Marrio declared he would attempt the formal establishment of a Spanish Republican government-in-exile in Mexico and cease its active alignment with the United Nations.

BRONX PROBES MYSTERY ODOR

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—For the second time within a month, a strange stench pollutes the air in the Bronx and again nauseated citizens are clamoring for something to be done about it.

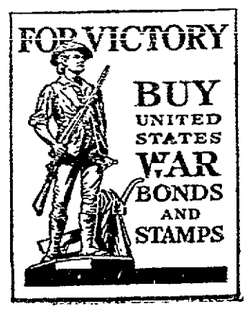

Something is being done but without result, for no one—expert or layman—has found the source of the smell. And many have tried.

Yesterday, for instance, Dr. John Oberwager, health department sanitation chief, postponed his vacation to go hunting for the odor. He didn't find it but right after he left, the wind changed, and there was the smell back again.

The afflicted area is in Alcason Point, a section of about 600 one-family houses and a couple of apartment buildings in the southeast Bronx. Citizens say the odor is indescribable, a combination of rotten eggs and a mud flat at low tide.

It disturbs sleep, creates nausea, discolors paint, tarnishes metals.

There is one ray of sunshine—a property owner said the smell is so offensive that it has chased away the mosquitoes.

SOME BOARDS NEED 1-A MEN

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Some of Pennsylvania's 422 local draft boards fell short in "a very small degree" of filling their August quotas of 1-A registrants, Col. B. F. Evans said today.

Evans, acting director of Selective Service for Pennsylvania, said the situation was disclosed in reports covering the first eight days of August and added:

"This condition may exist for a very short time but it won't exist for very long. There are adequate pools of men in reserve and the quotas will be made up."

He blamed the situation principally on the length of time needed to process registrants in accordance with new dependency provisions, adding that "many local boards haven't had time to process men to take the place of those previously classified as 1-A but placed in 3-A under new regulations."

Heavy enlistments "rather general over the state" have also been a factor, Evans said.

"One local board lost 40 men classified 1-A who were ready for induction but enlisted at the last minute," he declared.

The director explained it could take as long as 40 to 45 days to process a man who exercised his right of hearing before the local board and carried his case through the appeal board.

Under the new law all single men—including those in the fifth registration—must be inducted before other sources are tapped."

LEGIONNAIRES CURB ROWDYISM

Pittsburgh, Aug. 15 (AP)—The State American Legion, holding its annual convention here next week, is taking steps to prevent rowdyism.

Allegheny county Commander Harry W. Schreiver said the legion will have its own police detail of 38 men. Police Lieutenant Charles W. Bartsch, a legion district deputy commander chosen to head the detail, said the detail's main object will be "to stop any rowdyism," adding:

"We are trying to bring the National American Legion convention here in 1944 and so we want to make a good showing. Any Legionnaire who destroys anything hurts the war effort because it takes time to replace it. So, that's out."

Today's Talk

RAIN

I regret not having been born a poet, for then I would have composed a poem about rain, that would have come from my heart.

Moods make so much difference in our appreciation of most of the things in this life. It matters where we are, and how we feel, as to how we appraise what happens. I was visiting a friend recently. The day was dark and gloomy—and it was raining. My friend remarked that it was "a miserable day." To me, however, it was a glorious day, for I knew how the country needed rain, how people, including myself, were praying for rain, to drench the parched land, to save the crops, and lessen the tragedy of forest fires.

As I write the rain is falling in torrents. The patter upon my Lodge roof is music to my ears. I recall how the late O. O. McIntyre once wrote his regret for not visiting me here and of having the pleasure of hearing the patter of the rain upon "my tin roof." But it isn't tin, it's modern and air tight! But the music is there, nevertheless. All day I have sat by the brilliant log fire reading "David Copperfield" again. And what a pleasure—a book of my youth coming to life again in a new garment of pleasure.

How thirsty the earth was before this rain. How it smiles from tree to tree top, and amongst every blade of grass and mossy mound. And what glory there will be in the clearing, with the fresh smell of the woods. Rain is different in the forest and in the country. It's just rain in the city. It's a poem everywhere else!

Now the rain has taken a little vacation and the robins are flitting everywhere for the food that they have so much missed from the ground. I see little white-tailed birds all about, and the wild cherry is a banquet table for many. And wild red squirrels leap up to the small blue-berry bushes and take on a balanced diet. Drippings of rain are everywhere. How fresh and clean everything is all about.

On my desk, where I write, have been placed some white pond lilies. Each smiles a welcome to me, and yesterday I went out and gathered some wild flowers to have before me. There is a mystery message to each and they make me happy.

I love the rain. It does not depress me. Any more than it depresses me to see a hungry person being given nourishment. It cheers me.

HOUSE FOR RENT

For rent, until the end of fall,
A twelve-room house; condition good,
With newly painted roof and wall
And in an excellent neighborhood.

The place is modern and complete
With all a landlord can provide;
Has running water; summer heat;
Accessible from every side.

To babies no objection made.
Come early to avoid the crowd!
The rent, for just a song, is paid;
One only rule: "No cats allowed!"

Now, business manager, I'd say
This ad should run a day or so.
The purple martins moved away—
Wherever purple martins go.

Says Army And Navy Did Not Cooperate In Alaska

LOST CHANCE TO WIPE OUT SURFACE UNIT

Seattle, Aug. 15 (AP)—United States bombers lost a chance to annihilate a Japanese surface force, including an aircraft carrier, off Alaska last June because of the "unfortunate failure of Army and Navy coordination," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D.-Wash.) said today.

Magnuson, a member of the House Naval Affairs committee, told interviewers after an inspection tour of Alaska military bases that "failure on the part of one Army command to interpret liberally standing Naval orders regarding enemy contact resulted in a delay which gave the enemy an opportunity to remove itself."

The Army command responsible, he added, has since been relieved of duty, "and I am glad to say that there is no possibility of this happening again."

Spotted Carrier

"The Army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson said. "I have information that it was notified soon after the Dutch Harbor attack that Navy PBY's (flying boats) had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of landbase aircraft to make the kill.

"The Army command, however, believed its orders were not sufficiently broad to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite instructions.

"As a result, Army planes remained on the ground, and before Naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had slipped away from observation.

"Later the Army did succeed in making contact, but not under as favorable circumstances as they might have found if the response had been earlier."

Now Cooperate

Army and Navy officers in Alaska are now working in closest cooperation, he said.

"The Naval command itself has been greatly strengthened with new blood and experience. Communications are better, our bases are rounding rapidly into shape, and all the time I was there I never heard the word 'defense' mentioned once."

Rep. Magnuson who only a few weeks ago was in active service with the Navy as a lieutenant commander said he felt the Alaska situation was serious but not alarming, and that the Navy had the battle of Alaska and the Aleutians well in hand.

Countians Rank Well At Citadel

One Gettysburg and one Biglerville cadet placed in the upper 10 per cent of their class academically at The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina (Charleston), General Charles P. Summerall, president, announced today as he released the annual survey of underclassmen's grades for the 1941-42 session.

Joseph H. Berger, 339 Carlisle street, Gettysburg, ranked 39th and Thomas W. Enck, of Biglerville, ranked 21st in the fourth (freshman) class of 842.

WOMEN WORK AS LABORERS ON RAILROADS

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Women laborers in the huge Enola yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad here were reported today as the latest development in a wartime trend which has seen the ladies taking over many jobs traditionally reserved for men.

Mrs. Mary R. Morrow, chief of the Women's Division in the Department of Labor and Industry, said hardly a day passes without some new field being opened to the workers who carry compacts in their overalls.

Mrs. Morrow said demand for women workers has become so urgent that many women are being elevated to "executive" positions in an effort to put them outside Pennsylvania's hour laws.

In Other Work

Discussing non-defense occupations which have been available to women as a result of a war-born labor shortage, she reported that:

State hotels who would have refused "bellgirls" a year ago are using them and finding them good workers.

Drug stores have replaced 25 per cent of their pharmacist staffs with women.

Other jobs held now by women include: Taxi drivers, truck drivers, service station attendants, theater ushers, furniture factory machine operators, finger print classifiers, parking lot managers, test and ferry pilots, meteorology in airports, telegraph messengers, paper hangers and life guards.

These do not include the thousands of women, Mrs. Morrow added, who are working in vital war industries handling jobs never before done by their sex.

Backgrounds of Adams County

No. 251—The McClellan Family Graveyard

By B. F. MacPHERSON

As our readers may recall we have in the past written quite a good few columns on the McClellan family burial plot. There are still many questions to be answered on this subject. Many of the queries may never be answered because no written records have been kept and those whose memories would have served have long since passed from the scene. Every time additional data pertaining to this graveyard or one of the persons buried therein comes to light the writer of this column feels that a bit more of the mystery has been solved and in time the names and background of all the persons buried here will be known.

The McClellan family burial plot is located along the Black Hole road on what was once part of the McClellan plantation in Cumberland township. The McClellan family were among the early Scotch-Irish families who settled in the "Manor of the Masque." Evidently when they cleared their land, or shortly afterwards, they also reserved space for the family burial ground. This plot has often been incorrectly called the "Old Marsh Creek cemetery." This is absolutely incorrect. Not only is this a private burial ground but we have every reason to believe, in fact we have been told, that all the persons buried here were connected with the McClellans by ties of blood or marriage. Lower Marsh Creek cemetery is located quite near the McClellan burial plot in the adjoining township.

The first of the McClellan to settle in what is now Cumberland township was William McClellan, first of the name in this country. Insofar as is known this man was born and married in Coleraine, Ireland. He emigrated to America in 1739 when his son, the second William, born in 1735 was just four years old. This second William McClellan was twice married. The name of the first wife is not known but the second one was Mary Reynolds.

The third William McClellan, who was born June 21, 1763, was probably a son of the first wife. This William was married to Magdalen, a daughter of Baltzer Spangler, in January, 1788. He died July 27, 1831.

William McClellan 3rd and his wife were the parents of quite a large family. In his will, which was written in 1828 and entered to probate August 13, 1831, he mentions the following members of his family:

Wife: Lenah McClellan. 2. Son: William McClellan (fourth of the name); 3. Daughter: Nelly (Eleanor) McClellan intermarried with James Gilliland; 4. Daughter: Nancy McClellan intermarried with George Hersh; 5. Daughter: Maria McClellan (died unmarried); 6. Son: George ashington McClellan; 7 Son: John McClellan; 8. Son: Joseph McClellan; 9. Son: Henry McClellan; 10. Daughter: Charlotte McClellan intermarried with ——? Shower.

Mary Reynolds, the second wife of the second William McClellan, died in July of the year 1808. Her will, on file at the Court House, was written July 1, 1808 and entered to probate August 3, 1808. In this document she designates herself as "Mary McClellan, widow and relict of William McClellan." In addition she mentions the six following members of her family: 1. Son: Samuel McClellan; 2. Son: David McClellan.

The fact that she lists only these two sons leads one to believe that William McClellan had only the two living children to his second wife and that the unknown first wife was the mother of a rather large family which included the third William McClellan.

The fourth William McClellan, son of William (III) and Magdalena (Spangler) McClellan died in 1845. His will, which was written April 16, 1845, and entered to probate May 24, 1845, he mentions the following members of his family: 1. Wife: May McClellan; 2. Sister: Eleanor McClellan Gilliland; 3. Sister: Maria McClellan; 4. Brother: John H. McClellan; 5. Brother: George W. McClellan; 6. Son: William (fifth of the name) McClellan "—— the deed to the family graveyard on Marsh Creek;" 7. Daughter: Ellen McClellan (youngest in the family); 8. Daughter: Margaret H. McClellan; 9. Daughter: Mary D. McClellan; 10. Daughter: Louisa McClellan; 11. Daughter: Ella G. McClellan.

The notes on the McClellan family and graveyard will be continued next week.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

From one of the least known and most romantic episodes of early American days, 20th Century-Fox brings to the screen the smashing, action-packed story of the United States Military Academy in "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," due Monday at the Majestic theatre.

Starring George Montgomery, Maureen O'Hara and John Sutton, the film has been called a rousing successor to "To the Shores of Tripoli," and boasts a climax which previewers claim will make you stand up and cheer.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald appear in their latest co-starring production, "I Married an Angel," at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday, celebrating their eighth performance together as one of Hollywood's most popular musical-comedy teams.

In the new musical, based on the popular piece of the same name, which opened on Broadway, May 11, 1938, and had a spectacularly long run, Miss MacDonald and Eddy replace Dennis King and Vera Zorina. The film's supporting cast includes Edward Everett Horton, Binnie Barnes, Reginald Owen, Douglass Dumbrille and others, Maj. W. S. Van Dyke II directed.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Take a Letter Darling

Fred McMurray and Rosalind Russell who are co-starred in "Take a Letter Darling."

The secretary-boss relationship has been furnishing plenty of romantic fuel for books, plays and pictures these past years, and if you've gotten a little tired of the pattern, take heart. Something definitely new and hilarious has been added by Paramount. It will be seen in the Rosalind Russell-Fred MacMurray comedy, romance, "Take a Letter, Darling," produced and directed by Mitchell Leisen, which is coming next Friday to the Majestic theatre.

Here is a movie that does a complete right-about-face in that Rosalind Russell is the boss and Fred MacMurray her secretary.

PAPERS OPPOSE CUT IN PHOTOS

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The War Production Board has received "a great many protests" from publishers, it reported Friday, against an order which will cut in half the amount of zinc used for pictures in newspapers, magazines and other publications. The order is effective September 1.

A meeting of top WPB officials, including A. I. Henderson, deputy director general for operations, took up the question at a meeting late yesterday, but if any decision was reached it was not announced.

Helps Morale

The Office of War Information entered the picture through a letter sent by Assistant Director Gardner Cowles, Jr., to WPB's appeals branch, and the American Newspaper Publishers Association has filed a formal protest.

Cowles suggested the curtailment should not be so great as to cripple the service rendered by the press in building and sustaining national morale.

"This office has no way of knowing how seriously such a cut may cripple the use of pictures by newspapers," he said. "We just want to go on record that during this critical war period we feel that with very few exceptions the newspapers are performing a service vital to the morale of the country."

Mummasburg

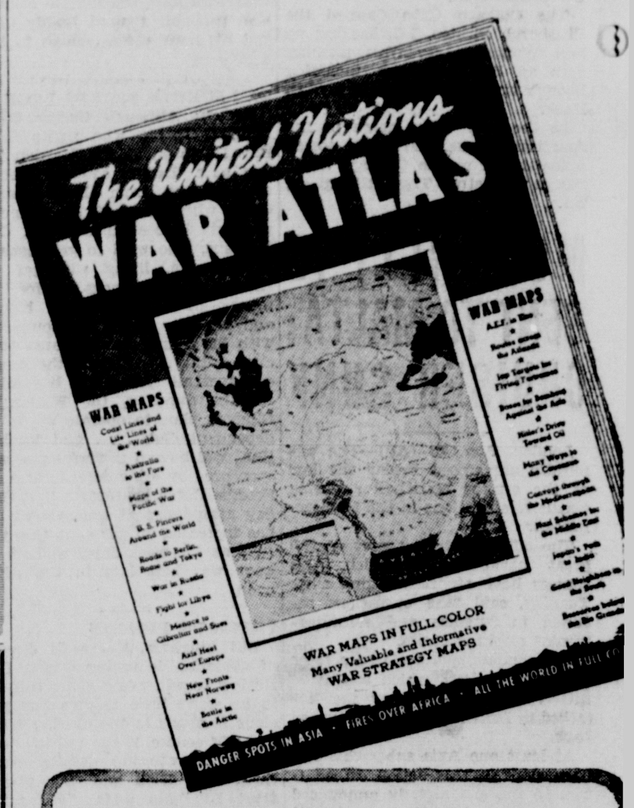

Mummasburg—Mrs. S. C. Walker, who had been confined to her bed for several weeks by illness is able to be up and around again.

David Neibler, who spent some time visiting relatives in York, has returned to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Cullison, Mrs. Harry Harmon, Mrs. Roy Leatherman, Mrs. Paul Hare and Mrs. Florence Wilson recently visited Mrs. Harmon's husband, Harry Harmon, who underwent a major operation at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. His condition is considerably improved. Those accompanying them on the trip were Miss Catharine Leatherman, Patsy Cullison, Ronald Harmon and Kenneth Cullison.

Kansas was first settled in 1827, became a territory with a part of Colorado in 1854 and was admitted to the Union Jan. 29, 1861.

Baltimore-Live Stock-Poultry

CATTLE—All classes of slaughter cattle received more attention Thursday than was applied during last Monday's turnover. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold on a fairly active basis at 15-25c. higher levels, while she stock cleared at stronger prices and the outlet for bulls and heifers produced firm levels. Strictly dry-fed steers and yearlings were lacking on early rounds, the early top being $14, paid for 1,170-pound distillery step steers; 1,860-pound West Virginia grassers also 1,305-pound averages. Virginia 1,156-pound grassers moved at $13.75 and 1,246-pound West Virginia secured $13.90. The salable offering of steers consisted mainly of medium and good grassers that had been fed during the past winter season, these bulking from $10—14, with common and medium arrivals from $11.50—12.75. In New York, dressed meat of all classes fell short of the demand and the market developed at strong prices. Good grade 903-pound heifers secured $12, while grassy 836-pound averages brought $12. Bulk of the slaughter cows were canner, cutter and common grades of dairy type, and in the disposal the price range was from $6.50—9.50, bulk selling from $7 upward. Good beef cows earned $9.50 and above, the number of these small. Good grade beef bulls brought $12.25, with beef sausage bulls of similar grade making $12. Most of the medium and good sausage bulls were taken from $10.75—11.75, common lightweights downward from $10.50. A few small lots of lightweight stock steers and calves were country bound from $11—12.25.

CALVES—A brisk demand prevailed for vealers, the supply numerically short for the outlet and prices were fully steady. Good and choice vealers cashed from $15.50—16, while medium and good lots secured $13—15, and common kinds drifted downward in the price column to around the $11.50 mark.

LAMBS AND SHEEP—The limited offering of fat lambs and sheep met a good inquiry. Strength recently noted in lamb carcass returns in the dressed trade has brought about some price improvement. Today's live trade retained in full the unevenly higher prices allowed last Monday. Good and choice grade of fat lambs averaging chiefly from 85-75 pounds sold from $14.75—15.50. Medium and good offerings turned from $13.50—14.50 and common and medium arrivals were purchased from $10—12.50. Buck lambs were discounted the usual $1 per hundredweight. The supply of slaughter sheep was very small, best going at $4.50, with common to good old head lots noted from $2—3.

HOGS—Mostly 10c. higher price prevailed in Thursday's local hog market. The practical top was pegged at $15.50. Weights from 120-130 pounds sold at $14.35—14.60; 130-140 pounds, $14.45—14.70; 140-160 pounds, $14.85—15.10; 160-180 pounds, $15.10—15.35; 180-220 pounds, $15.25—15.50; 220-240 pounds, $15.10—15.35; 240-260 pounds, $14.85—15.10; 260-300 pounds, $14.65—14.90; sows, $13.45—13.95. Good and choice hogs sold virtually at outside prices. Above prices are based on the sale of grain-fed hogs.

CHICKENS—Rocks, as to size, 29—32c., few higher; crosses, 29—31c.; Reds, 29—30c.; Leghorns, 2 lbs. up, mostly 24c., few higher. All kinds, ordinary, 20—24c.

FOWL—4 lbs. up, Rocks, 24—25c.; mixed colors, 23—24c.; Leghorns, 15—18c.

DUCKS—Pekins, 21—22c.; poor, thin, 15—18c.; Muscovy, 22c, few higher.

WILDERNESS GIRL

By LETA ZOE ADAMS

YESTERDAY — Sandy Morse has come to Onha determined to enter the Forbidden Land, and find the secret key to the books of Mayan history. But nobody seems to know much about the dangerous country except a girl named Tyra Fleming, and now Sandy is trying to find her. There is a complication—Helen Brotherton, wealthy widow, is financing Sandy's expedition, and Helen has insisted on accompanying him.

Chapter Four
"Call Me Helen"

Sandy got to his feet, and strode off toward his room. As he passed an open door a voice called sweetly. "Oh, Sandy! Come here and tell me about it."

He stepped through the open door. Helen Brotherton lay in a hammock, alluringly feminine in a thin white negligee. She was a lovely woman, with fair, blooming skin and soft honey-colored hair. Gil said she had been some kind of show girl when Lang Brotherton took a fancy to her. But since she never mentioned that part of her life no one else mentioned it either. Her marriage to Lang Brotherton had obviously been another rich-old-man-young-girl affair. However, so far as anyone knew, she had made him a docile wife as long as he lived.

"There isn't much to report, Mrs. Brotherton," he said stiffly.

Her cornflower-blue eyes widened. "Do call me Helen, won't you, Sandy? I've asked you so often. And since we're going to be together a long time don't you think it sounds ridiculous to keep calling me 'Mrs. Brotherton'?"

"Maybe it does," Sandy achieved an abortive smile.

She raised herself in the hammock so that a fold of the negligee fell back from her arm to expose the lovely curving line.

"You look hot and uncomfortable, Sandy. Why don't you sit down and order an iced drink?"

Sandy winced. She seemed to have a talent for saying the wrong thing to—him.

"Thanks, no," he answered shortly. "You wanted to know about the result of my talk with McIntyre?"

"Only I do wish you'd make yourself comfortable while you're telling me about it."

"And I wish you'd . . ." Sandy put a brake on his tongue quickly enough to prevent the rest of the words from tumbling forth. What he had been about to say would have sounded childish and petty, and it would have been irrevocable.

He ran a finger around his collar, loosening it. He'd have to conquer this sort of irritation, that was all.

Helen was getting out of the hammock. She put her feet carefully on the floor and stood up. She came a step toward Sandy, her hand outstretched in a gesture of supplication.

"Sandy, why don't you like me? What have I done?"

Sandy shifted uneasily. All his instincts clamored for him to back away, but a small, shrewd voice whispered that it might mean annihilation to his expedition if he obeyed his impulse. He hated that small voice but it was strong enough, nevertheless, to hold him there.

"Why, you've done nothing. I don't know what you're talking about, anyhow," he mumbled, hedging. He felt, as he always did with Helen, that he was backed into a corner and could not escape.

"I'm sure you do know what I'm talking about," Helen went on slowly, softly. "And Sandy, I don't dislike you. I never have. From the first moment I met you I've thought you were about the grandest person I'd ever seen."

Then Sandy did the only thing that seemed possible, at the moment.

"Good God!" he muttered, and turning quickly, made for the open door.

To the Fiesta

Gil, Helen and Sandy were lingering over cigarettes that evening after dinner when McIntyre came toward them from the street. Sandy made the introductions and the big rancher heaved his bulk into a chair.

"I have located Miss Fleming. She is staying at the home of Senor de Urazo and his wife, Josefa. However, when I sent my messenger, she was not in. She is at the fiesta. If you want to come with me, we may be able to find her."

"Want me to string along, chief?" Gil inquired.

"Since it's a fiesta, I don't see why we can't all go," Sandy said.

He smiled at Helen as he spoke with some vague idea of making up for his rudeness of the afternoon.

She brightened visibly when he smiled. "That would be so nice. Must I change, Mr. McIntyre?"

McIntyre glanced at her tailored linen frock and said gallantly that she was perfect as she was. Then they all had a drink—something with the fiery tequilla for a base—and in that slightly festive mood were ready.

The village streets presented a sharp contrast to that earlier hour when Sandy walked through them. The magic of the fiesta and night had awakened the city to life.

McIntyre explained that on account of the frequent torrential rains it was necessary to hold their fiestas under cover. For that purpose a long, thatched ramada had been built.

Tyra Fleming

They had not gone many steps before they were halted by a brace of Tehuanos, friends of McIntyre. After the elaborate introductions the Tehuanos insisted that the strangers drink a cup of mescal.

"Since we have been asked it would be bad manners to refuse," McIntyre told Sandy.

"But this Miss Fleming, do you see her?" Sandy asked, as they shouldered their way to one of the booths.

"Not yet, but there is plenty of time."

At last they reached the cleared dancing space. Now the guitars and drums were twanging and banging out a highly fanciful version of a fox-trot that Sandy had heard in the States many years before.

"Our civilization hasn't touched them much, you see. Only the music . . ." McIntyre was saying, then he broke off "I think that is Miss Fleming, in native dress, dancing with the young Tehuano in the red sash."

Sandy tried to follow, through the spinning figures, the couple McIntyre pointed out. For no reason that he could define his pulse stepped up a beat. The girl was turned away from him now but there was something in the way she danced with head thrown back and body held erect which would have arrested his attention even if he had not been interested in watching for her.

Then she rotated and he caught a flash of laughing eyes in a frame of brown hair tied with a red scarf. His reaction was: "Why, she's young!" Somehow he had visualized her as a middle-aged spinster with a long nose and a hatchet jaw.

Again she revolved in the maze of dancers, closer this time. She was apparently answering something her partner had said for she shook her head vigorously, setting a pair of long, hammered gold earrings swaying. Her lips were widened in an ecstatic smile, her face aglow. Obviously she was having an exceedingly good time.

"Miss Fleming!" McIntyre called.

She glanced over her shoulder and fluttered a hand in recognition. Around she went again, almost lost to view among the whirling figures.

Helen said in a detached voice. "She's very pretty."

"Uh?" McIntyre appeared to come out of a coma. "Yes, yes—of course. Hardly a girl you'd expect to find tramping around a jungle, eh?"

Baltimore-Live Stock-Poultry

CATTLE—All classes of slaughter cattle received more attention Thursday than was applied during last Monday's turnover. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold on a fairly active basis at 15-25c. higher levels, while she stock cleared at stronger prices and the outlet for bulls and heifers produced firm levels. Strictly dry-fed steers and yearlings were lacking on early rounds, the early top being $14, paid for 1,170-pound distillery slop steers; 1,360-pound West Virginia grassers also 1,308-pound averages. Virginia 1,156-pound grassers moved at $13.75 and 1,246-pound West Virginia secured $13.90. The salable offering of steers consisted mainly of medium and good grassers that had been fed during the past winter season, these bulking from $13—14, with common and medium arrivals from $11.50—12.75. In New York, dressed meat of all classes fell short of the demand and the market developed at strong prices. Good grade 903-pound heifers secured $13, while grassy 830-pound averages brought $12. Bulk of the slaughter cows were canner, cutter and common grades of dairy type, and in the disposal the price range was from $6.50—9.50, bulk selling from $7 upward. Good beef cows earned $10.50 and above, the number of these small. Good grade beef bulls brought $12.25, with beef sausage bulls of similar grade making $12. Most of the medium and good sausage bulls were taken from $10.75—11.75, common lightweights downward from $10.50. A few small lots of lightweight stock steers and calves were country bound from $11—12.25.

CALVES—A brisk demand prevailed for vealers, the supply numerically short for the outlet and prices were fully steady. Good and choice vealers cashed from $15.50—16, while medium and good lots secured $13—15, and common kinds drifted downward in the price column to around the $11.50 mark.

LAMBS AND SHEEP—The limited offering of fat lambs and sheep met a good inquiry. Strength recently noted in lamb carcass returns in the dressed trade has brought about some price improvement. Today's live trade retained in full the unevenly higher prices allowed last Monday. Good and choice grade of fat lambs averaging chiefly from 65-75 pounds sold from $14.75—15.50. Medium and good offerings turned from $13.50—14.50 and common and medium arrivals were purchased from $10—12.50. Buck lambs were discounted the usual $1 per hundredweight. The supply of slaughter sheep was very small, best going at $4.50, with common to good odd head lots noted from $2—4.

HOGS—Mostly 10c. higher price prevailed in Thursday's local hog market. The practical top was pegged at $15.50. Weights from 120-130 pounds sold at $14.35—14.60; 130-140 pounds, $14.45—14.70; 140-160 pounds, $14.85—15.10; 160-180 pounds, $15.10—15.35; 180-220 pounds, $15.25—15.50; 220-240 pounds, $15.10—15.35; 240-260 pounds, $14.85—15.10; 260-300 pounds, $14.65—14.90; sows, $13.45—13.95. Good and choice hogs sold virtually at outside prices. Above prices are based on the sale of grain-fed hogs.

CHICKENS—Rocks, as to size, 28—32c., few higher; crosses, 29—31c.; Reds, 29—30c.; Leghorns, 2 lbs. up, mostly 24c., few higher. All kinds, ordinary, 20—24c.

FOWL—4 lbs. up, Rocks, 24—25c.; mixed colors, 23—24c.; Leghorns, 15—18c.

DUCKS—Pekins, 21—22c.; poor, thin, 15—18c.; Muscovy, 22c, few higher.

Chapter Four

"Call Me Helen"

Sandy got to his feet, and strode off toward his room. As he passed an open door a voice called sweetly, "Oh, Sandy! Come here and tell me about it."

He stepped through the open door. Helen Brotherton lay in a hammock, alluringly feminine in a thin white negligee. She was a lovely woman, with fair, blooming skin and soft honey-colored hair. Gil said she had been some kind of show girl when Lang Brotherton took a fancy to her. But since she never mentioned that part of her life no one else mentioned it either. Her marriage to Lang Brotherton had obviously been another rich-old-man-young-girl affair. However, so far as anyone knew, she had made him a docile wife as long as he lived.

"There isn't much to report, Mrs. Brotherton," he said stiffly.

Her cornflower-blue eyes widened. "Do call me Helen, won't you, Sandy? I've asked you so often. And since we're going to be together a long time don't you think it sounds ridiculous to keep calling me 'Mrs. Brotherton'?"

"Maybe it does," Sandy achieved an abortive smile.

She raised herself in the hammock so that a fold of the negligee fell back from her arm to expose the lovely curving line.

"You look hot and uncomfortable, Sandy. Why don't you sit down and order an iced drink?"

Sandy winced. She seemed to have a talent for saying the wrong thing to him.

"Thanks, no," he answered shortly. "You wanted to know about the result of my talk with McIntyre?"

"Only I do wish you'd make yourself comfortable while you're telling me about it."

"And I wish you'd . . ." Sandy put a brake on his tongue quickly enough to prevent the rest of the words from tumbling forth. What he had been about to say would have sounded childish and petty; and it would have been irrevocable.

He ran a finger around his collar, loosening it. He'd have to conquer this sort of irritation, that was all.

Helen was getting out of the hammock. She put her feet carefully on the floor and stood up. She came a step toward Sandy, her hand outstretched in a gesture of supplication.

"Sandy, why don't you like me? What have I done?"

Sandy shifted uneasily. All his instincts clamored for him to back away, but a small, shrewd voice whispered that it might mean annihilation to his expedition if he obeyed his impulse. He hated that small voice but it was strong enough, nevertheless, to hold him there.

"Why, you've done nothing. I don't know what you're talking about, anyhow," he mumbled, hedging. He felt, as he always did with Helen, that he was backed into a corner and could not escape.

"I'm sure you do know what I'm talking about," Helen went on slowly, softly. "And Sandy, I don't dislike you. I never have. From the first moment I met you I've thought you were about the grandest person I'd ever seen."

Then Sandy did the only thing that seemed possible, at the moment.

"Good God!" he muttered, and turning quickly, made for the open door.

To the Fiesta

Gil, Helen and Sandy were lingering over cigarettes that evening after dinner when McIntyre came toward them from the street. Sandy made the introductions and the big rancher heaved his bulk into a chair.

"I have located Miss Fleming. She is staying at the home of Senor de Uraza and his wife, Josefa. However, when I sent my messenger, she was not in. She is at the fiesta. If you want to come with me, we may be able to find her."

"Want me to string along, chief?" Gil inquired.

"Since it's a fiesta, I don't see why we can't all go," Sandy said.

He smiled at Helen as he spoke with some vague idea of making up for his rudeness of the afternoon.

She brightened visibly when he smiled. "That would be so nice. Must I change, Mr. McIntyre?"

McIntyre glanced at her tailored linen frock and said gallantly that she was perfect as she was. Then they all had a drink—something with the fiery tequilla for a base—and in that slightly festive mood were ready.

The village streets presented a sharp contrast to that earlier hour when Sandy walked through them. The magic of the fiesta and night had awakened the city to life.

McIntyre explained that on account of the frequent torrential rains it was necessary to hold their fiestas under cover. For that purpose a long, thatched ramada had been built.

Tyra Fleming

They had not gone many steps before they were halted by a brace of Tehuanos, friends of McIntyre. After the elaborate introductions the Tehuanos insisted that the strangers drink a cup of mescal.

"Since we have been asked it would be bad manners to refuse," McIntyre told Sandy.

"But this Miss Fleming, do you see her?" Sandy asked, as they shouldered their way to one of the booths.

"Not yet, but there is plenty of time."

At last they reached the cleared dancing space. Now the guitars and drums were twanging and banging out a highly fanciful version of a fox-trot that Sandy had heard in the States many years before.

"Our civilization hasn't touched them much, you see. Only the music . . ." McIntyre was saying, then he broke off "I think that is Miss Fleming, in native dress, dancing with the young Tehuano in the red sash."

Sandy tried to follow, through the spinning figures, the couple McIntyre pointed out. For no reason that he could define his pulse stepped up a beat. The girl was turned away from him now but there was something in the way she danced with head thrown back and body held erect which would have arrested his attention even if he had not been interested in watching for her.

Then she rotated and he caught a flash of laughing eyes in a frame of brown hair tied with a red scarf. His reaction was: "Why, she's young!" Somehow he had visualized her as a middle-aged spinster with a long nose and a hatchet jaw.

Again she revolved in the maze of dancers, closer this time. She was apparently answering something her partner had said for she shook her head vigorously, setting a pair of long, hammered gold earrings swaying. Her lips were widened in an ecstatic smile, her face aglow. Obviously she was having an exceedingly good time.

"Miss Fleming!" McIntyre called. She glanced over her shoulder and fluttered a hand in recognition. Around she went again, almost lost to view among the whirling figures.

Helen said in a detached voice, "She's very pretty."

"Uh?" McIntyre appeared to come out of a coma. "Yes, yes—of course. Hardly a girl you'd expect to find tramping around a jungle, eh?"

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

RAIN

I regret not having been born a poet, for then I would have composed a poem about rain, that would have come from my heart.

Moods make so much difference in our appreciation of most of the things in this life. It matters where we are, and how we feel, as to how we appraise what happens. I was visiting a friend recently. The day was dark and gloomy—and it was raining. My friend remarked that it was "a miserable day." To me, however, it was a glorious day, for I knew how the country needed rain, how people, including myself, were praying for rain, to drench the parched land, to save the crops, and lessen the tragedy of forest fires.

As I write the rain is falling in torrents. The patter upon my Lodge roof is music to my ears. I recall how the late O. O. McIntyre once wrote his regret for not visiting me here and of having the pleasure of hearing the patter of the rain upon "my tin roof." But it isn't tin, it's modern and air tight! But the music is there, nevertheless. All day I have sat by the brilliant log fire reading "David Copperfield" again. And what a pleasure—a book of my youth coming to life again in a new garment of pleasure.

How thirsty the earth was before this rain. How it smiles from tree to tree top, and amongst every blade of grass and mossy mound. And what glory there will be in the clearing, with the fresh smell of the woods. Rain is different in the forest and in the country. It's just rain in the city. It's a poem everywhere else!

Now the rain has taken a little vacation and the robins are flitting everywhere for the food that they have so much missed from the ground. I see little white-tailed birds all about, and the wild cherry is a banquet table for many. And wild red squirrels leap up to the small blue-berry bushes and take on a balanced diet. Drippings of rain are everywhere. How fresh and clean everything is all about.

On my desk, where I write, have been placed some white pond lilies. Each smiles a welcome to me, and yesterday I went out and gathered some wild flowers to have before me. There is a mystery message to each and they make me happy.

I love the rain. It does not depress me. Any more than it depresses me to see a hungry person being given nourishment. It cheers me.

HOUSE FOR RENT

For rent, until the end of fall,
A twelve-room house; condition good.
With newly painted roof and wall
And in an excellent neighborhood.

The place is modern and complete
With all a landlord can provide;
Has running water; summer heat;
Accessible from every side.

To babies no objection made.
Come early to avoid the crowd;
The rent, for just a song, is paid;
One only rule: "No cats allowed"

Now, business manager, I'd say
This ad should run a day or so.
The purple martins moved away—
Wherever purple martins go.

Says Army And Navy Did Not Cooperate In Alaska

LOST CHANCE TO WIPE OUT SURFACE UNIT

Seattle, Aug. 15 (AP)—United States bombers lost a chance to annihilate a Japanese surface force, including an aircraft carrier, off Alaska last June because of the "unfortunate failure of Army and Navy coordination," Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D.-Wash.) said today.

Magnuson, a member of the House Naval Affairs committee, told interviewers after an inspection tour of Alaska military bases that "failure on the part of one Army command to interpret liberally standing Naval orders regarding enemy contact resulted in a delay which gave the enemy an opportunity to remove itself."

The Army command responsible, he added, has since been relieved of duty, "and I am glad to say that there is no possibility of this happening again."

Spotted Carrier

"The Army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson said. "I have information that it was notified soon after the Dutch Harbor attack that Navy PBY's (flying boats) had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of landbase aircraft to make the kill.

"The Army command, however, believed its orders were not sufficiently broad to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite instructions.

"As a result, Army planes remained on the ground, and before Naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had slipped away from observation.

In Other Work

"Later the Army did succeed in making contact, but not under as favorable circumstances as they might have found if the response had been earlier."

Now Cooperate

Army and Navy officers in Alaska are now working in closest cooperation, he said.

"The Naval command itself has been greatly strengthened with new blood and experience. Communications are better, our bases are rounding rapidly into shape, and all the time I was there I never heard the word 'defense' mentioned once."

Rep. Magnuson who only a few weeks ago was in active service with the Navy as a lieutenant commander said he felt the Alaska situation was serious but not alarming, and that the Navy had the battle of Alaska and the Aleutians well in hand.

Countians Rank Well At Citadel

One Gettysburg and one Biglerville cadet placed in the upper 10 per cent of their class academically at The Citadel, The Military College of South Carolina (Charleston), General Charles P. Summerall, president, announced today as he released the annual survey of underclassmen's grades for the 1941-42 session.

Joseph H. Berger, 339 Carlisle street, Gettysburg, ranked 39th and Thomas W. Enck, of Biglerville, ranked 21st in the fourth (freshman) class of 842.

WOMEN WORK AS LABORERS ON RAILROADS

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Women laborers in the huge Enola yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad here were reported today as the latest development in a wartime trend which has seen the ladies taking over many jobs traditionally reserved for men.

Mrs. Mary R. Morrow, chief of the Women's Division in the Department of Labor and Industry, said hardly a day passes without some new field being opened to the workers who carry compacts in their overalls.

Mrs. Morrow said demand for women workers has become so urgent that many women are being elevated to "executive" positions in an effort to put them outside Pennsylvania's hour laws.

In Other Work

Discussing non-defense occupations which have been available to women as a result of a war-born labor shortage, she reported that:

State hotels who would have refused "bellgirls" a year ago are using them and finding them good workers.

Drug stores have replaced 25 per cent of their pharmacist staffs with women.

Other jobs held now by women include: Taxi drivers, truck drivers, service station attendants, theater ushers, furniture factory machine operators, finger print classifiers, parking lot managers, test and ferry pilots, meteorology in airports, telegraph messengers, paper hangers and life guards.

These do not include the thousands of women, Mrs. Morrow added, who are working in vital war industries handling jobs never before done by their sex.

Backgrounds of Adams County

No. 251—The McClellan Family Graveyard

By B. F. MacPHERSON

As our readers may recall we have in the past written quite a good few columns on the McClellan family burial plot. There are still many questions to be answered on this subject. Many of the queries may never be answered because no written records have been kept and those whose memories would have served have long since passed from the scene. Every time additional data pertaining to this graveyard or one of the persons buried therein comes to light the writer of this column feels that a bit more of the mystery has been solved and in time the names and background of all the persons buried here will be known.

The McClellan family burial plot is located along the Black Hole road on what was once part of the McClellan plantation in Cumberland township. The McClellan family were among the early Scotch-Irish families who settled in the "Manor of the Masque." Evidently when they cleared their land, or shortly afterwards, they also reserved space for the family burial ground. This plot has often been incorrectly called the "Old Marsh Creek cemetery." This is absolutely incorrect. Not only is this a private burial ground but we have every reason to believe, in fact we have been told, that all the persons buried here were connected with the McClellans by ties of blood or marriage. Lower Marsh Creek cemetery is located quite near the McClellan burial plot in the adjoining township.

The first of the McClellan to settle in what is now Cumberland township was William McClellan, first of the name in this country. Insofar as is known this man was born and married in Coleraine, Ireland. He emigrated to America in 1739 when his son, the second William, born in 1735 was just four years old. This second William McClellan was twice married. The name of the first wife is not known but the second one was Mary Reynolds.

The third William McClellan, who was born June 21, 1763, was probably a son of the first wife. This William was married to Magdalen, a daughter of Baltzer Spangler, in January, 1788. He died July 27, 1831.

William McClellan 3rd and his wife were the parents of quite a large family. In his will, which was written in 1828 and entered to probate August 13, 1831, he mentions the following members of his family:

Wife, Lenah McClellan. 2. Son: William McClellan (fourth of the name); 3. Daughter: Nelly (Eleanor) McClellan intermarried with James Gilliland; 4. Daughter: Nancy McClellan intermarried with George Hersh; 5. Daughter: Maria McClellan (died unmarried); 6. Son: George ashington McClellan; 7. Son: John McClellan; 8. Son: Joseph McClellan; 9. Son: Henry McClellan; 10. Daughter: Charlotte McClellan intermarried with ——? Shower.

Mary Reynolds, the second wife of the second William McClellan, died in July of the year 1866. Her will, on file at the Court House, was written July 1, 1863 and entered to probate August 3, 1866. In this document she designates herself as "Mary McClellan, widow and relict of William McClellan." In addition she mentions the six following members of her family: 1 Son: Samuel McClellan; 2. Son: David McClellan.

The fact that she lists only these two sons leads one to believe that William McClellan had only the two living children to his second wife and that the unknown first wife was the mother of a rather large family which included the third William McClellan.

The fourth William McClellan, son of William (III) and Magdalena (Spangler) McClellan died in 1845. His will, which was written April 16, 1845, and entered to probate May 24, 1845, he mentions the following members of his family: 1. Wife May McClellan; 2. Sister: Eleanor McClellan Gilliland; 3. Sister: Maria McClellan; 4 Brother: John H McClellan; 5 Brother: George W. McClellan; 6 Son: William (fifth of the name) McClellan '—— the deed to the family graveyard on Marsh Creek, ' 7. Daughter: Ellen McClellan (youngest in the family); 8 Daughter Margaret H. McClellan; 9 Daughter Mary D McClellan; 10 Daughter: Louisa McClellan; 11. Daughter Ella G McClellan.

The notes on the McClellan family and graveyard will be continued next week.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

From one of the least known and most romantic episodes of early American days, 20th Century-Fox brings to the screen the smashing, action-packed story of the United States Military Academy in "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," due Monday at the Majestic theatre.

Starring George Montgomery, Maureen O'Hara and John Sutton, the film has been called a rousing successor to "To the Shores of Tripoli," and boasts a climax which previewers claim will make you stand up and cheer.

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald appear in their latest co-starring production, "I Married an Angel," at the Majestic Wednesday and Thursday, celebrating their eighth performance together as one of Hollywood's most popular musical-comedy teams.

In the new musical, based on the popular piece of the same name, which opened on Broadway, May 11, 1938, and had a spectacularly long run, Miss MacDonald and Eddy replace Dennis King and Vera Zorina. The film's supporting cast includes Edward Everett Horton, Binnie Barnes, Reginald Owen, Douglass Dumbrille and others. Maj. W. S. Van Dyke II directed.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Take a Letter Darling

Fred McMurray and Rosalind Russell who are co-starred in "Take a Letter Darling."

The secretary-boss relationship has been furnishing plenty of romantic fuel for books, plays and pictures these past years, and if you've gotten a little tired of the pattern, take heart. Something definitely new and hilarious has been added by Paramount. It will be seen in the Rosalind Russell-Fred MacMurray comedy, romance, "Take a Letter, Darling," produced and directed by Mitchell Leisen, which is coming next Friday to the Majestic theatre.

Here is a movie that does a complete right-about-face in that Rosalind Russell is the boss and Fred MacMurray her secretary.

The population of the Soviet Union, 170,000,000 at the last census, is approximately four-fifths European, one-fifth Asiatic.

PAPERS OPPOSE CUT IN PHOTOS

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—The War Production Board has received "a great many protests" from publishers, it reported Friday, against an order which will cut in half the amount of zinc used for pictures in newspapers, magazines and other publications. The order is effective September 1.

A meeting of top WPB officials, including A. I. Henderson, deputy director general for operations, took up the question at a meeting late yesterday, but if any decision was reached it was not announced.

Helps Morale

The Office of War Information entered the picture through a letter sent by Assistant Director Gardner Cowles, Jr., to WPB's appeals branch, and the American Newspaper Publishers Association has filed a formal protest.

Cowles suggested the curtailment should not be so great as to cripple the service rendered by the press in building and sustaining national morale.

"This office has no way of knowing how seriously such a cut may cripple the use of pictures by newspapers," he said. "We just want to go on record that during this critical war period we feel that with very few exceptions the newspapers are performing a service vital to the morale of the country."

Mummasburg

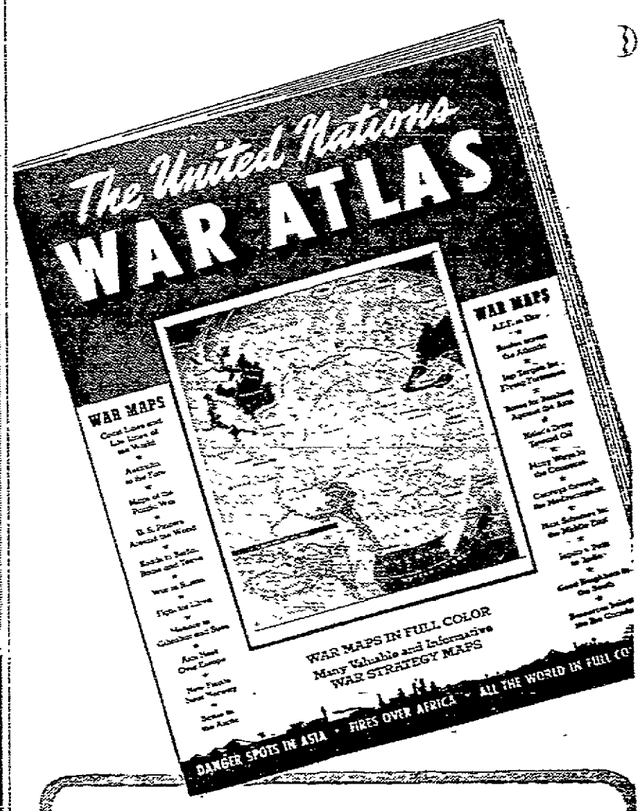

Mummasburg—Mrs. S. C. Walker, who had been confined to her bed for several weeks by illness is able to be up and around again.

David Neibler, who spent some time visiting relatives in York, has returned to the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Cullison, Mrs. Harry Harmon, Mrs. Roy Leatherman, Mrs. Paul Hare and Mrs. Florence Wilson recently visited Mrs. Harmon's husband, Harry Harmon, who underwent a major operation at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore. His condition is considerably improved. Those accompanying them on the trip were Miss Catharine Leatherman, Paisy Cullison, Ronald Harmon and Kenneth Cullison.

Kansas was first settled in 1827, became a territory with a part of Colorado in 1854 and was admitted to the Union Jan. 29, 1861.

"MAD BARBER" IS ARRESTED

Pascagoula, Miss., Aug. 15 (AP)—The bizarre mystery of a "phantom barber" who clipped girls' hair while they slept and the brutal beating of a young couple in their bed were believed solved Friday with the arrest of a German-educated chemist.

Police Chief A. W. Ezell said "we're sure it's the man," and declared that he had been charged with assault and battery and attempted murder of the couple.

Terror had spread throughout this ship-building city after the strange attacks. Residents kept their doors and lower windows locked securely and women would not venture forth alone at night.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Heidelberg were beaten severely with an iron bar as they slept in their home early on the morning of July 13. Two days previously, Carol Peattie had been given a ragged haircut by an intruder into her home.

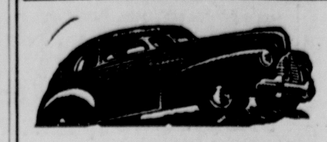

Mary Evelyn Briggs and Edna Marie Haydell also received hair-trimmings as they slept at Our Lady of Victories convent.

Riding with Russell

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. by FREDERICK C. RUSSELL, Member S. A. E.

At least we have no shortage of gas on the rubber situation.

Having a Heat Wave

How hot do you think tires run anyway?

I've checked with some tire engineers and find that temperatures run over 200 degrees in many cases. I am speaking of internal heat, the kind that causes over-inflation, tube leakage and blowouts. So take it easy on a hot day. When you stop, select a shaded portion of the road and allow the car to roll to a standstill instead of heating up the tires by applying the brakes suddenly. Rain is a relief for the tires but unless there is a real downpour this seldom does more than help the treads. The tires continue to heat up as long as they are running, due to the flexing of sidewalls and internal friction between the layers of cord.

Run as You Fill

It stands to reason that after an engine has boiled over things should be allowed to cool off before water is added. But there is an additional precaution to take. When adding water run the engine slowly so that the cold water is circulated and mixed with the warm water remaining in the cooling system. Add the water slowly. Unless the engine is run there's a good possibility that as the cooling system fills up cold water will be running directly into the cylinder head which is likely to be the hottest part of the system.

The Motor Primer

If you remember the lesson about the four cycles which the engine's pistons go through you will remember that one of these finds a piston traveling downward with the intake valve open and the exhaust valve closed. During this suction stroke a piston draws in its charge of gas vapor prior to compressing it on the next succeeding stroke. Having visualized this you naturally ask what happens when you close the throttle, or take your foot off the accelerator. Suction is created within the pistons, but there is greatly reduced outlet for this through the carburetor. Does a piston then draw from some other source?

The answer to this explains why it is that if you drive erratically the engine will burn off more oil. Unable to suck air and gas through the carburetor, at least in sufficient quantities, the pistons then suck up air and vapor from the crankcase. Oil is in this vapor. Sometimes, if the rings are bad and the cylinder is worn, a piston will suck oil from along the wall. This oil is burned, leaving carbon deposits. Oil mileage drops and the engine is over-lubricated.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"One of the surprising things to me is the way that motorists will let anyone with a wrench put anything in the way of liquid into the hydraulic braking system. But an even greater mystery is why owners of used cars will think they are doing right by their cars when they are particular to see that only authorized fluid is added to the reserve tank of the braking system. What about the possibility of the original owner having had off-standard fluids added?

"When I am servicing a used car which a customer has just acquired I make it a point to bleed off the lines and flush them out with a brake cleaner. This isn't complete insurance against the possibility of damage to rubber parts of the system from the poor quality fluids which may have been used previously, but it's definitely a step in the right direction."

Sway No Longer Useful

You may not realize it but one of the advanced engineering features of your car is costing you tire life. I refer to the anti-sway bar which will be found at the front end of some cars and at the rear of others. It is designed to check the car's tendency to tip on curves and was a product of the speed age which was supreme in motordom when the war broke out. With an anti-sway bar on your car you can go around curves faster without that annoying and dangerous sensation of swaying. The idea had some merit when tire wear was of secondary consideration. Today it is necessary to think of curves in terms of old-fashioned sway. Reduce your curving speed five miles an hour and you'll be able to keep going with the present set of tires a lot longer.

Keep These in Mind

When you have occasion to go on a trip be sure to have the car checked over even though you think it has been running well enough. Remember that you have been making short runs at greatly reduced speeds. I did not discover that there was a bad thermostat in my car's engine until I drove 50 miles over the open road and had met a few steep hills.

If the oil filter has picked up all the dirt it can hold it will by-pass the oil until its cartridge is replaced. During this interval the engine is not benefitting by filtration. You can tell when the filter has stopped protecting by the fact that it will not feel hot.

Tests have shown that an effective way to save gas is to utilize but half of the carburetor's acceleration capacity when picking up speed. Most drivers go all the way down on the accelerator, feeding the engine more gas than it needs or can "digest." In most cases the car will accelerate just as fast if the throttle is opened one-half to three-quarters.

For economy's sake start uphill faster and try to avoid strain during a climb. Our modern cars were built for higher speed on hills, and much knocking at present is due to struggling at slow speed in high gear.

There'll Come a Time

The war gets blamed for a lot of things but one of the worst of these is using conditions as an alibi for the car's failure to give a reasonably good account of itself. I have been quite surprised at the low standards of performance accepted by some owners whose cars used to run in tip-top shape. They tell me that there's no point in keeping the car running so well when use of it is so restricted, completely overlooking the possibility that there may come a time when a car that can delivef the goods may be a real handicap. Who knows when the "command performance" may be ordered?

One for the Book

When a motorist has paid for a clutch overhaul and then finds the darn thing slipping you can't blame him for feeling blue about it. But when H.B.L. ran up against such a situation he refused to become excited about it. Consulting the instruction book he noticed that the clutch was equipped with a helper spring. Purpose of this spring was to aid in disengaging the clutch. That got him thinking. Checking over the car itself he found that this helper spring had gotten out of position so that it was actually causing partial disengagement of the clutch. The effect was similar to slipping the clutch. Remedy is just a matter of relocating the spring.

Questions of the Week

Q. What causes difficulty shifting into gear? I have a great deal of trouble with the gears and seldom start without clashing. L. M.

A. This is primarily due to clutch drag. Among the reasons for this condition are: Loose clutch facings, warped clutch plate, incorrectly adjusted release levers, incorrect clutch pedal free play and a too tight clutch plate hub.

Q. I read a statement somewhere that tires should be kept inflated to a point where the car starts to ride badly, in order to get maximum mileage from the rubber. Is this correct? H. B. D.

A. Some very bad advice is floating around these days. Over-inflation causes the tire to bounce and thus to wear more rapidly. When pressure is so high that the car isn't comfortable you will be courting tire trouble. Use a tire gauge and keep to recommended pressures.

Q. Recently when the engine of my car overheated, and the radiator cap was removed, water and steam spouted out like a geyser. A service man later checked the thermostat, pump, fan and timing, and said that these were all in good condition. He decided that the radiator block should be reverse flushed, but it seems to me that all the sediment and rust blew out when the engine overheated. What do you think? G. L.

A. Most of that water was from the radiator. Your service man is right. Have the block reverse flushed. I would also reverse flush the radiator.

Q. Is it necessary to change oil after installing an oil filter or after changing a filter cartridge? J. J. K.

A. This is a good question. Always change the oil so that the new filter cartridge will not be handicapped from the start by having to clean up old and dirty oil.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.
